

Forest Grove Police Log – 2015

January 1

-After a concerned woman called about her sister calling her in tears, police completed a welfare check and found the sister with a broken arm. She eventually admitted that her husband had broken it three days prior and had punched her in the chin this date. The husband was arrested and lodged at the WC Jail for Assault II and Assault IV (felony).

-A resident called police to find out her rights as a roommate.

-A local hotel called police after a guest threatened staff while checking out.

-Officers assisted Washington County deputies on a shots fired call.

January 2

-Nine decorative candy canes were stolen from a yard on Douglas Street.

-A man took off on a skateboard after stealing beer from Safeway but was still caught by officers. The music he was listening to with headphones may have prevented him from hearing the pursuing officers sneak up from behind. The man was arrested for theft.

-A woman wanted her boyfriend to leave her apartment since he was not on the lease and they were not getting along. The proper eviction process was explained and both decided to separate for the evening.

January 3

- Police checked on a woman at an assisted living facility with a history of depression that was armed with a steak knife and drinking heavily. The knife had been taken away before police arrival. Officers talked with the woman who did not want to kill herself but was upset because she did not want to live in a care facility anymore.

-Police responded to a car alarm going off and items just stolen from a vehicle on Main Street in the middle of the night. Two more cars were found with items missing. A K9 assisted in attempting to track the suspect(s).

-Two individuals were trespassed from McMenemy's after going on to the property and using the restroom.

January 4

-An officer checked the welfare of an elderly woman near 27th Avenue and Main Street who was cold, wet and disoriented. The woman had no idea where she lived. The officer determined she was from an area assisted living center and transported her home.

-A resident called after a woman came to their door rambling about different topics and getting arrested out of state. Officers contacted the woman and determined she was having a mental health crisis. She was transported to the hospital.

-Police checked the welfare of a woman at Safeway who felt she had just been hypnotized during a store transaction. She also stated that her sex glands were melting. Officers determined the woman was suffering a mental health episode.

-Police checked on a woman after a resident called police to report a female down in their front yard. The woman did not respond after attempting to wake up. Police determined the woman was extremely intoxicated and offered her a ride home.

January 5

-Police responded to an address where a caller's 20 year old son-in-law was having some sort of mental health episode and would not go to the hospital. Officers contacted the subject who was having issues but did not require transport to the hospital.

-Officers responded to a residential burglary alarm and determined the culprit was the family cat.

-A man reported a RP reported a dresser outside of his apartment but it did not exist. Officers determined the man was suffering from a methamphetamine induced psychosis. After a probation officer placed an arrest detainer on the subject, officers attempted to take him into custody. The man violently resisted arrest, assaulted officers and was tased multiple times before finally being taken into custody. Medical was called to the scene to evaluate. The officers received only minor injuries.

January 6

-A woman ran into the police station to report that her 10 y/o son was out of control and suicidal. She tried to catch him but he kept running away. Officers located the boy at a local restaurant who was uncooperative. He was eventually transported by ambulance to the hospital for an evaluation.

-Police checked the welfare of a man who was is intoxicated, mumbling and wandering into other people's rooms at an apartment complex trying to take stuff. The man was suffering mental health issues and transported to the hospital.

-Police responded to a report of a suicidal subject calling from a cell phone in the area of the high school. An officer made contact with the man by phone who stated he did not want to talk and lived in outer space, not Forest Grove. The man hung up and called his ex-girlfriend to tell her he knew the cops were looking for him and that he would take others with him. The man's phone was pinged leaving town and other police agencies were alerted to be on the lookout for the man.

January 7

-Police responded on a report of an adult male down at a residence with a 13 month old child present. The child's mother responded to care for the child and the man was transported to the hospital.

-Police responded to a report of a 90 y/o female threatening staff with a shard from a broken plastic vase.

-Police responded to a disturbance between a landlord and tenant over parking locations.

January 8

-Officers assisted Cornelius deputies with a subject resisting arrest.

-A man called requesting police take his neighbor away because she was "crazy". The man was referred to his landlord.

-Police responded to a report of a 12 y/o girl out of control and assaultive because she was upset after being told to go to her room.

-Police responded to on a 13 y/o special needs child who was out of control.

-A daughter asked us to check on her mother believing she was suicidal. Police determined the woman was intoxicated by not suicidal.

January 9

-A woman reported harassment by an ex-boyfriend because she was pregnant with another man's child.

-An officer was flagged down by a concern citizen regarding a female that was found lying on the sidewalk. The woman was checked and found to be intoxicated on alcohol and methamphetamine. She was transported to a detoxification facility.

-A man was arrested after a grabbed for an officer's taser.

-A caller reported a possible intoxicated driver in the drive-thru at a local fast food restaurant. Prior to arriving, the driver switched places with the passenger. Officers determined the original driver was intoxicated and arrested him. The other occupant refused to obey commands to stay back and was also arrested. The driver's blood alcohol level was nearly double the legal limit at .15%.

January 10

-Police responded to a head-on crash at "E" Street and Pacific Avenue.

-A welfare check was requested after a man kept hanging up on doctors trying to call him. Police spoke to the man who was given only a short time to live and did not wish to speak to medical staff.

-Police responded after woman report her boyfriend was intoxicated, breaking furniture and trying to take her phone away. A struggle ensued as police attempted to take the man into custody. The man was arrested and charged with two counts of Assaulting a Police Officer, Interfering with Police, Disorderly Conduct, Criminal Mischief and Resisting Arrest.

-Police responded to a report of an injury rollover crash on Purdin Road after the sheriff's office requested assistance and had no cars available. The driver of the vehicle was arrested for DUII and had a blood alcohol level of .15%.

January 11

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office with a horse vs vehicle crash.

-Police responded to assist with a psychiatric patient who thought someone had put something in his drink to make him hear voices. He was transported to the hospital.

-Police stopped a vehicle for a traffic violation and found two juveniles out past curfew. One turned out to be a runaway and was taken into custody.

-A shoplifter was arrested at Bi-Mart after stealing $55 worth of merchandise.

January 12

-A man called police to report that his ex-wife ran over his foot.

-Police responded to a disturbance between a grandmother and grandson.

-Police received a report of a man chasing a woman. Officer found the man who was running after his mother to get his coat.

-An 85 y/o man called from a local hotel wanting to talk police but would not say why. When police arrived, the man explained the TV in his room did not work and wanted a ride home. His request was denied.

January 13

- A caller wanted to know why police were setting up cameras around their home. (Police were doing no such thing).
- A man cut his wrists and was taken to the hospital by ambulance. It was later learned he had assaulted his girlfriend with a full beer bottle and went to jail following his hospital stay.
- Officers were called to a local establishment on a man in a wheelchair passed out.
- A 17 y/o was charged with harassment after pushing his sister down during a domestic dispute.

January 14

- Police responded to Nichols Lane near the high school on a man hiding something in his jacket and making students nervous. Police contacted the man and found a puppy in his jacket.
- Officers were called to check for a man walking down Main Street talking to himself and saying repeatedly "I'm sorry I killed them." Police did not find the man.
- A man reported getting disturbing text messages from an unknown person.
- A homeless man walked into an apartment on 22nd Avenue asking for food and a place to stay. Officers offered the man assistance.

January 15

- A woman called police because she paid $1045 to Publishers Clearing House but they still wanted more money before giving her the new Mercedes-Benz.
- Police responded to vicious dogs that killed a neighbor's chickens. Animal Control officers took over the investigation.
- Safeway called police after a customer attempted to wire money to a person claiming they needed cash to get out of jail.

January 16

- Police arrested a man after he attempted to break into a university dorm room. The man claimed he was there to get $25,000,000 from Marcus Mariota.

-A man was stopped for a violation then resisted arrested when police learned he had a warrant for his arrest.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance where a wife slapped her husband.

-A woman reported unwanted text messages from the mother of her son's friend.

January 17

-A caller reported someone banging on the side of a nearby building. Police determined it was the wind blowing some loose siding.

-Police responded to an address on a report of teenaged boys being loud. Upon arrival they noticed a boy urinating at the side of the street. The boy was intoxicated and lied about his name. He was charged with furnishing false information and MIP.

-Police responded to a pipe found after a bachelorette party at a local establishment. Substance in the pipe tested positive for cocaine however none of the girls at the party wanted to admit claim ownership.

January 18

-A woman called police to complain that a local motel had placed her under hypnosis. She also wanted to report that Walmart had stolen her twin.

-An officer stopped a car and noticed the odor of marijuana. Further investigation resulted in discovery of over 1/2 lb of marijuana, scales and money. The driver was arrested for delivery, possession and manufacture of a controlled substance.

-A caller reported that a neighbor took bags out of the trash and placed them in his truck.

January 19

-Police responded to a physical fight between two patients at a rehabilitation center.

-A woman was lodged for possession of methamphetamine during a traffic stop after a drug dog "hit" on the car and drugs were found.

-An elderly woman called to complain that police did not fix her furnace problem and that a "large fire truck" was sent instead.

January 20

-Officers checked on kids in the woods near Tom McCall and found high school students skipping class. The school was notified.

-A woman called to report her 32 year old sister missing. She had not seen her in a year and a half and last saw her then at a bar in Portland.

-Police responded to a report of woman who stated she was going to kill herself. After police arrived, the woman lunged for a scalpel in a dresser drawer. Officers took the woman into protective custody after a brief struggle.

January 21

-Police responded to a report of a man screaming at a child in an apartment. Officers contacted the man who admitted to yelling because he was angry.

-The driver of a pickup squealing tires and driving recklessly on "D" Street near 23rd eluded an officer and drove west out of town at a high rate of speed on Gales Creek Highway. The officer terminated pursuit for the safety of the public. The driver later crashed and was seriously injured. He was later charged with Elude and DUI by WCSO.

-Police responded to mother vs daughter disturbance on 21st Avenue.

January 22

-Police responded to a fight between a mother and daughter. After arrival, the mother attempted to punch one of the officers in the face and was arrested. She later fought with corrections staff at the jail.

-Several juveniles were trespassed from city parks after being disorderly and violating the posted rules at the skate park.

-A caller reported seeing a woman who appeared to be high on drugs. Officers contacted the woman who admitted to using methamphetamine for the first time. She was evaluated by medical personnel then transported to a detoxification facility.

January 23

-Police stopped a car on Hwy 47 that had switched plates along with a temporary DMV sticker from another car. Neither of the two occupants in the vehicle had a driver's license. The plates were seized off the car and driver issued multiple citations.

-A caller reported a man looking in the windows of a neighboring house on Strasburg. Officers checked the man who had just dropped his wife and daughter off for a play date and was looking at a house for sale.

-Police looked for a subject that stole three high octane steel reserve beers from the Plaid Pantry on Elm Street.

January 24

-Officers responded to a domestic disturbance between a grandmother and grandson she had evicted.

-Officers spent some time with Special Olympics athletes at Forest Grove High School. The kids were very excited to interact with the officers.

-A citizen called in regarding questions about a neighbor having a pig.

-A traffic stop turned into a warrant arrest and multiple charges including Identity Theft and Possession of a Forged Instrument after the driver was found with a fraudulent driver's license out of state under a different name to attempt to avoid capture.

January 25

-A woman asked for help in locating her husband who had left in a vehicle and was not "acting in his right mind" or making sense. After contact by phone, the man stated he was hallucinating and believed people were out to get him and were going to shoot him. Police looked for the man until he showed up at the hospital on his own for treatment.

-A resident called police after hearing a neighbor yelling "help". Police checked on the neighbor who was yelling at his roommate because she was not respecting him.

-A caller reported that a friend left a voice mail and referenced wanting to die. Police contacted the man who said he wasn't serious and simply wanted to talk.

January 26

-A mother reported her son was being harassed by others over social media.

-A caller reported her grandson for stealing money. The boy was charged with Burglary and Theft.

-Police responded to an argument that became physical between a boyfriend and girlfriend. Both were arrested for domestic harassment.

-A caller reported a theft of a glass pipe. An officer later spotted the suspect walking down the street and arrested him for theft and possession of methamphetamine.

January 27

- Police responded to a local motel after a woman refused to check out of her room.
- A man trying to push start his truck rolled into a fence causing private property damage. The driver and fence owner exchanged information.
- A parent asked police to talk with his 16 y/o daughter about pulling his 13 y/o daughter's hair and pushing her. An officer spoke with the 16 y/o about the possible consequences of being physical with her sister. She agreed to find other ways to deal with her stress and anger.
- Police responded to the high school on a report of two female students fighting.

January 28

- Police responded to a head on crash on Pacific Avenue. One of the drivers was issued a citation for Careless Driving.
- A resident reported a 3 y/o boy walking down the street alone. The child was returned home and a report taken.
- A woman called 911 stating she needed medical for cat bites that occurred over the weekend. She later said the bites were actually scratches now and she gave away the cat over the weekend. The woman also complained of her feet hurting from poor arch support. Police believe the woman is suffering mental health issues and advised her not to call the 911 emergency number again.

January 29

- A caller report that someone defecated in the parking lot near their apartment and on the back door sometime during the night leaving their pants. The caller did not want a report taken but just wanted police to know that someone was running around without their pants.
- A caller reported that a driver got out of a vehicle and appeared visibly intoxicated. Police contacted the driver and arrested him.
- Police responded to a silent burglary alarm at a residence tripped by the family cat. This is the third time in two months officers have responded to this false alarm.
- Police responded to a report of loud music, loud bass, banging on walls, and loud talking for an hour. A female at location had just finished divorce paperwork today and was alone and upset. She agreed to keep it down.

January 30

-A citizen called police after finding random poker chips spread throughout their neighborhood and thought it was suspicious.

-An officer located a suspicious truck parked on Hawthorne Street. A male and female were found hiding in the pickup bed. The female was arrested for a warrant and the male arrested after it was discovered he was to have no contact with the female by court order.

-Police were called to assist medical in checking on an intoxicated female with torn clothing on Brooke Street. While fire/medical personnel evaluated the woman, she decided to punch a firefighter. The woman was arrested for assaulting a public safety officer and interfering with medical personnel.

January 31

-An officer was flagged down by a motorist reporting an impaired driver. After quickly giving the description over the radio, another officer spotted the car near 19th and Hawthorne Street. The female driver was stopped and arrested after showing signs of impairment. Her blood alcohol level was .20%.

-Police checked on a report of a barking dog. The owner advised the dog was outside because it had gone blind this date and they did not want it roaming around the residence to get injured. The owner received a warning.

-A woman called for assistance after her ex-boyfriend and his new girlfriend showed up to bang on her windows. The ex-boyfriend and his girlfriend were found leaving and advised not to return.

February 1

-A woman called police after a former friend refused to leave her apartment.

-Police took a dog to Bonnie Hayes after a caller reported it was following her and had no tags.

-A man reported that a woman cleaned out his bank account and his storage unit.

-A caller had questions about a possible rabid raccoon.

February 2

-Police settled a dispute over dog feces being thrown over a fence.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance near a local establishment. The couple were visiting Forest Grove and arguing after the female let someone take the video poker taking machine they were waiting for.

-Police got behind a vehicle reportedly driving in the wrong direction on Hwy 47. The car eluded and the officer terminated pursuit as it left city limits. A WCSO deputy the pursued to car to a residence where the driver was arrested for DUII, Eluding a Police Officer, Misdemeanor Driving While Suspended and several warrants.

-A woman reported her husband was 2 ½ hours late and had not arrived home. It was determined the man had been arrested on a warrant and was at the jail.

February 3

-A woman was taken into custody and transported to the hospital after she held a knife to her chest and threatened to kill herself.

-A woman called police after getting threatening messages over Facebook.

-A woman called police after getting a death threat over the phone.

February 4

-A citizen reported a reckless driver on a motorized wheelchair. Police found the driver near Safeway and told him to drive more carefully.

-Multiple calls were received about attempted scams by a subject claiming to be from a federal agency collecting unpaid taxes.

-A caller reported someone used her social security number and filed her tax return.

February 5

-A woman called police after her boyfriend made threats to hurt himself via text messaging.

-A citizen called wanting assistance in serving divorce papers.

-An anonymous caller reported that children were living in filth at an apartment. Officers checked the apartment but did not find circumstances as described.

February 6

-Police responded to a local convenience market on a report of disturbance outside of the store. Police found a man in a wheelchair in a heated discussion about the war with three subjects home on military leave. All were separated and directed on to different buses.

-A woman reported that her adult intoxicated daughter left her residence on foot and she wanted police to look for her. Officers checked on the daughter who stated she was fine and walking to a friend's house for the night because she was tired of arguing with her mother.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance on Birch Street and arrested a man for Assault in the Fourth Degree.

February 7

-Police contacted the owners of a dog that was reportedly left outside in the rain tied to a post.

-A citizen reported meat taken from a garage freezer, stolen DVD's and change taken from a jar. The suspect is the homeowner's son.

-Police responded on an accidental alcohol overdose.

-Police responded to a local establishment on a report that someone had been in the bathroom for an hour and a half. Police contacted a man who had turned the bathroom into his own room.

April 19

-Police responded to a family argument over care of their grandmother.

-Police checked the roof of a local school after an employee thought they heard someone running around on top.

-Officers responded to a report of an 11 y/o special needs child that ran away. The child was located and returned home. The child then hit the officer in the face and tried to damage a patrol car before being taken into protective custody and transported to the hospital.

April 20

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance at a local motel.

-A dementia patient at an assisted living facility called to report they were brought to the location by gunpoint. Officers determined this was not the case.

-While an officer was handling a call for service, a man drove up and reported that his wife had just assaulted him. The officer investigated and arrested the wife for Domestic Assault Felony. While on above call, male drove up and said that he

April 21

-Police looked for a reckless Bronco that reportedly nearly hit several cars in the area of the high school.

-A woman reported her ex-boyfriend was repeatedly calling her phone.

-A dog owner reported that another aggressive dog injured their dog while at the dog park.

April 22

-A resident called police concerned about their 92 y/o neighbor. The neighbor was checked on and was fine.

-A boy was trespassed from all City parks after it was learned he was hitting other kids at the park.

-Police responded to a crash where a vehicle hit a parked vehicle in a residential area. The driver was transported to the hospital and also charged for DUII drugs.

April 23

-A woman complained she was being harassed by her neighbors.

-An officer contacted a subject seated in a vehicle at night near the "B" Street bridge and observed the driver had a handgun with him on the front seat. The subject told the officer that he was waiting for a friend and got scared so he took the gun out.

-Two juveniles were arrested and referred to Washington County Juvenile after pills and a switch blade knife were found in their possession.

April 24

-Police responded to a crash involving a vehicle into a parked truck with the driver fleeing the scene. A police K9 was requested to assist and it tracked to an address where occupants were initially uncooperative. After additional investigation, a woman at the address was arrested and lodged at Washington County Jail for DUII, Hit & Run and Criminal Mischief.

-A man was reportedly walking around yelling and screaming in a neighborhood. Officers contacted the man who was singing along with the music from his headphones. He was asked to take it inside for the night.

-Police received a call of a subject driving around taking pictures of houses in the neighborhood.

April 25

-Officers responded to a verbal dispute on a Tri-Met bus. Officers contacted a couple who were arguing because one wanted to go home and the other wanted to run errands.

-A traffic stop on Pacific Avenue near Mt. View Ln resulted in a 24 man getting arrested for DUII.

-An 18 y/o female was cited for MIP after she reportedly fell down in the 3300 block of Pacific Avenue. The sober 16 y/o that she was with was transported home and released to his parents.

April 26

-Two kids ran from a construction facility as an officer entered the site doing extra patrol. The kids were caught and charged with Criminal Mischief, Criminal Trespass and Unlawful Entry into a Motor Vehicle. Some additional follow up by the officer also resulted in charges of Arson against the juveniles from a fire at a local elementary school the week prior.

-A man called police fearing for his safety after he made an inappropriate comment to a much larger guy. The man now wanted the police to guard him. Officers told the man that the police would not be his body guard.

-A caller reported a man walking up the street kicking mailboxes and knocking over garbage cans. Police did not locate the man but an officer later took the time to upright all the garbage cans and picked up the spilled trash.

April 27

-A man was cited for harassment after he allegedly hit and elderly female at a care facility.

-A woman reported the theft of marijuana from her vehicle by an acquaintance.

-A report of two people fighting in a vehicle heading to Cornelius ended up being a mother trying to restrain her child with mental health issues.

April 28

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance with the caller reporting sounds like someone was being thrown up against a wall. The disturbance was verbal only with no injuries. The sound was from an object that dropped on the floor.

-A firearm was secured by a boyfriend after a suicidal subject accidentally discharged a firearm trying to figure out how it worked. The subject was taken into protective custody and transported to the hospital.

-Three people were reported to be "doing drugs" on the railroad tracks. Subjects were contacted who were using vapor pens.

April 29

-Police responded to a fight near the restrooms at Lincoln Park. Three were arrested and one went to the hospital for treatment of injuries.

-A citizen reported to police that someone was attempting to log in to their "Smart TV" and that it was now broken. The citizen also reported recent holograms that have appeared and he had recorded from his phone.

-Officers found two intoxicated juveniles after responding to a disturbance near Goodwill. Both were taken into custody and later released to their parents.

April 30

-A caller reported that an intruder "shrouded like an Arab" was in his room and not saying anything. The officers determined it was a hallucination.

-An injured large dog was found in a wetlands area behind a residence and transported to an emergency veterinarian clinic.

-Officers responded to the hospital to assist with a patient in the emergency room that was in pain and being uncooperative.

May 1

-A woman reported the theft of mail from mailboxes because they were old and not locking. An officer determined no theft was taking place.

-Officers were called to assist rescue personnel with a combative patient.

-A 4 y/o child was transported to the hospital after trying to hurt a younger brother and himself.

-After responding to call of a fight on 19th Avenue, one subject decided to pull away and balled up his fist to fight the officer. The subject was subdued and arrested for Interfering with a Police Officer and Resisting Arrest.

May 2

-A caller reported seeing an older man and two females enter an abandoned residence. The caller believed they might be doing drugs or witchcraft. Officers contacted occupants of the home who were new residents and not doing drugs or witchcraft.

-A woman called to report geese on Hwy 47.

-A man reported his truck stolen at some point while he was in prison for three years.

-A driver was stopped for near Yew Street and arrested for DUII. The driver's blood alcohol level was well over triple the legal limit at .36%.

May 4

-A resident called police after finding a "gold certificate" for $1,000,000 blowing around in the backyard. It was determined to be a novelty bill.

-Police checked on a report of a man sitting in a vehicle for over 3 ½ hours watching teen girls walk by. The man was "doing art" in his car and denied watching anyone.

-A caller reported a prowler after hearing a male voice saying "knock-knock" through an open window. Caller thought it might be the father of their boyfriend.

-A resident called police to report that their vehicle was stolen. It was actually repossessed for non-payment.

May 5

-A reported domestic dispute between a male and female turned out to be the female suffering mental health issues.

-Two lost goats were corralled by officers and secured at the high school. The owners were found with the help of social media.

-Police responded to a report of a man who was down and foaming from the mouth. Upon arrival the man recovered and refused medical treatment.

-A driver was cited after hitting a pedestrian in a crosswalk. The pedestrian was transported to the hospital for evaluation.

May 6

-Police responded to a report of a man yelling at passing cars and punching the outside wall of a local convenience marked. Officers contacted the man who denied acting in this manner.

-Officers responded to a possible burglary in progress after a man was seen climbing into a window of a residence. A man was contacted who advised that his sister had locked him out of the house when she left earlier.

-A resident was asked to clean off the street after painting basketball court markings and the words "slow down" on a city roadway.

-The Light & Power Department requested assistance after receiving a concerning statement left on a voice mail message. Police were familiar with the person leaving the message who is exhibiting signs of dementia.

May 7

-A caller reported a man walking in a local cemetery. It was an employee of the cemetery.

-An officer was called to check a situation with panhandlers near Safeway. Apparently a generous citizen bought them $100 worth of food and they were attempting to exchange the food items for cash.

-A caller reported that he was being stalked because there was a car parked on the street near his home that he didn't recognize.

-A concerned resident called after seeing a female that appeared injured walking down the street with blood on her. Officers contacted the female who was suffering a nose bleed.

May 8

-A resident called police after an elderly female walked into their house. Police determined the woman was suffering from dementia and returned her to her husband.

-A woman called to report bank fraud. Officers determined she actually fell victim to a scam by giving money to a man she met online.

-Police responded to a traffic crash where one of the drivers was reportedly intoxicated. It was determined that the driver alleged to be intoxicated was actually a diabetic suffering low blood sugar.

-A man was issued a citation after he consumed beef jerky, donuts and a bagel at a local store and left without paying for it.

May 9

-Police investigated a suicide by hanging.

-Officers assisted the sheriff's office on a call of a mentally unstable man armed with a knife outside of the city. The man was taken into custody on a police hold.

-A man was reported to be lying face down on the pavement on Pacific Avenue. Police determined the man was coming down off drugs and transported to the hospital.

-A man reported that a woman "con artist" in town claiming to be the sister of "one of the Cosby kids" had stolen his cell phone contacts. Police were not sure who this woman could be or how this could have occurred.

May 10

-After bug landed on a driver's leg and caused panic, the driver swatted at the bug and subsequently lost control of her vehicle, crashing into another car. Besides the fate of the bug, there were fortunately no injuries. A citation was issued.

-Police responded a disturbance between a 50 y/o daughter and her 70 y/o mother about living arrangements.

-Extra patrol was provided in the area where a vehicle was "egged" the night before after the victim received word that the suspects were returning to do another egging.

May 11

-A citizen reported a man defecating in the shrubbery. Police contacted the man who insisted he was just working on a disabled vehicle and had not defecated. No evidence to the contrary was located.

-A landlord called police after receiving a check for $3550 after posting a room for rent at $600.

-Police checked on an elderly man using a walker after a caller reported appeared to be having trouble and almost tripped. An officer contacted the man who had fallen but he refused assistance or a ride.

May 12

-Police were called after a steak salesman came to a residence and started yelling.

-A man reported that his ex was harassing him via the internet on a cheaters website.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance where an intoxicated man claimed his intoxicated wife was accusing him of hitting her but she denied making the accusation. The argument was allegedly over gay rights after the man got into an argument with a gay individual in Cornelius. Police were recalled again to the same address as the argument continued where they were advised to stop calling 911 and call it a night.

May 13

-A welfare check was requested after a sister expressed concern for her brother who had not been seen in 4 days. He furthermore apparently failed to call his mother to wish her a happy mother's day. Officers found lights on at the house but no one would answer the door.

-A man called police after he forgot money for the bus and was afraid he would be late for work. The officer offered the man a bus pass as a courtesy.

-An allegedly intoxicated man was stopped by police and arrested for DUII after his vehicle was seen weaving in the roadway with no lights. He refused to take the breath test.

May 14

-A caller request police contact concerning raccoons "running rampant" in the downtown area twice this date. The caller said they were specifically concerned because raccoons were "nocturnal" and "crepuscular".

-Police responded to an assisted living center after a 90 y/o resident with dementia began attacking staff and hitting people with a broom. The resident was transported to the hospital.

-An officer was flagged down by a subject reporting car alarms going off where "all the bars are." Officers checked bar locations and heard no alarms going off or other issues.

-Police responded a home alarm going off for reasons unknown. Officers checked the home and perimeter but found nothing alarming.

May 15

-A caller reported that $750 was deposited in their account. Furthermore, someone made access to their YouTube account.

-A man called to report that his wife was disgruntled and had just kicked a window in.

-Police responded to reported verbal and physical altercation at a residence. Upon arrival they found a grandmother and her two grandchildren but no indication of any fight or argument.

May 16

-Officers assisted medical personnel and the sheriff's office at an address outside of the city limits after a man reported shooting himself on accident. Injuries were not life threatening.

-Officers attempted to find a man who left the hospital during treatment with an IV still in his arm. The found the man with the IV still intact and he appeared to be hallucinating. The man took on a fighting stance and engaged the officers in an altercation. The man was taken into custody after a brief struggle and transported back to the hospital.

-Police responded to multiple calls related to college graduation parties. One resulted in a fight with ten people involved after upset neighbors confronted several intoxicated party goers. Subjects were actively fighting upon police arrival. One man was arrested and lodged for Disorderly Conduct and Assault.

-A resident of an apartment complex called police to complain about the neighbor's vibrating bed shaking the wall which was causing her to have seizures. She was advised to contact the apartment management to address the issue as owning a vibrating bed is not against the law.

May 17

-A woman was arrested for shoplifting from Bi-Mart.

-Police looked for a subject on the University campus reportedly walking around yelling that he was going to kill himself. Officers were unable to find the subject.

-A man reported that another man entered his locked motel room and stole $60 before he woke up.

May 18

-Police investigated a scam involving stolen credit card information being used to purchase and deliver items to an address in town for shipment by a suspect in Ghana. This is the third investigation involving this type of scam in recent months.

-A concerned resident called police after getting a strange phone call about "affairs and hit men".

-Police checked for a raccoon reportedly dragging a trap on its right foot. They were unable to locate the raccoon.

-Police responded a report of screaming heard from a residence. It turned out to be a teen-aged boy yelling at a highly competitive video game.

May 19

-An individual reported finding marijuana in items they were burning for a friend.

-A man reported that a woman stole his car. Police learned however that the woman is one of the registered owners. The woman cannot get arrested for stealing her own car.

-A woman reported getting unwanted texts from her mother.

-An emotionally disturbed 11 y/o child taunted officers, ran from them and tried hitting them with a stick. The child was taken into protective custody after a brief foot pursuit.

May 20

-Police responded on an out of control autistic 15 y/o creating a disturbance.

-Officers checked the welfare of a man reportedly in a wheelchair on the University campus not moving. The man was fine and simply sitting very still while enjoying the sunny day.

-Officers responded to another call involving a man in a wheelchair with the man allegedly blocking an entrance. The man was warned not to block the entrance and police also addressed an outstanding warrant he had for his arrest.

-Police arrested a man after he violated a restraining order by attempting to burn down a fence and threatened to kill his wife.

May 21

-A local church called for assistance after a woman refuse to leave church property.

-Police investigated after a pit bull attacked two other dogs.

-A man reported a theft from vehicle. He had loaned the vehicle to his girlfriend and she returned it two days later with everything inside gone. The girlfriend claimed she had no idea what happened to the items.

May 22

- Two female juveniles were caught writing on public property and were charged with criminal mischief.
- A mother became scared after her son began banging on doors in the home and called police. Her son was apparently upset over losing a video game. He agreed to stop banging on doors.
- A man flagged down an officer and requested a ride to McMinnville. The officer declined but instead offered to call a cab for the man. He declined.

May 23

- Smart phones and other items of value started being delivered to a local resident from a subject in Ghana and were turned over to police. The items are being purchased with stolen credit cards and the operation is part of a reshipping scam to launder stolen goods. Residents should be cautioned against accepting friends' requests on Facebook from people they don't know, especially out of the country as this is how suspects find people to take part in the scam.
- A concerned wife called police after her husband received a text in the middle of the night asking him to have sex with a promise never to talk to him again or text again if he complied. The wife wanted to know if this was legal.
- Police responded to a disturbance between boyfriend and girlfriend. The girlfriend claimed her boyfriend grabbed her arms and caused her belly button piercing to come out.
- Police responded to an address after a loose pit bull bit a 12 y/o child. The dog has been quarantined and the case is under further investigation.
- Police were called again to a man in a wheelchair not moving on University grounds. The man was fine and still enjoying the sunshine.

May 24

- A woman called police to report that a man was spraying weeds and didn't stop spraying when she walked by on the sidewalk.
- Police responded to a report of a woman trying to climb over a fence to get in a back yard. Officers contacted the woman who was trying to get to a friend's home to use the bathroom.
- A concerned mother called police after her son started receiving text messages from an unknown source telling him to "look outside" and then hearing a bang against the window and knock on the door. Officers checked the area but found no one.

May 25

- Police investigated a theft of donuts and milk.
- A resident reported that a “young kid” accompanied by his “grandpa” walked into their yard and urinated in it. Police have a suspect in mind.
- A man was arrested for felony assault and resisting arrest after he head butted his domestic partner during argument.

May 26

- An alert officer recognized a woman driving a car with a license suspended at the felony level. She was arrested and lodged at the WC Jail.
- Police responded to a fight involving four people and arrested two for Disorderly Conduct.
- Officers checked on an elderly female on Cedar Street who was lost. She was transported home to Quince Street.

May 27

- Officers warned a group of individuals on skateboards that nearly hit a pedestrian then began cursing at her and calling her names. The group told officers they “already knew what the law was” and paid their salaries.
- Police responded to a domestic disturbance after a witness observed a male subject going after a female with a hammer. Officers found the female who was uninjured but also uncooperative.
- Police received a call of a loud rooster near 17th Avenue. Officers waited in the area for 20 minutes but heard nothing.

May 28

- A local church reported a theft of a green cart. Officers later found a man with the green cart in his possession and arrested him.
- A resident called about a woman with some possible mental health issues in their home banging doors and burning food. The resident apparently agreed to rent to the woman and was advised on landlord/tenant law as no laws were being broken.

-A man called for police after a subject tried to open his car door while he was in the line for the ATM machine at a local bank. Officers contacted the subject who explained that marijuana he smoke the night before caused him to hallucinate and check car doors he thought belonged to his father.

May 29

-While on an unrelated call, an alert officer recognized a suspect vehicle from a hit & run case. The officer arrested the suspect.

-A frustrated mother asked police to talk to her 24 y/o son about moving out of her home and getting a job.

-A caller reported up to five "drunken men" singing at the top of their lungs near Raymond Street. Officers were unable to find the intoxicated quintet.

May 30

-While investigating switched plates on a vehicle, the suspect became uncooperative and started throwing punches at the officer then ran. Officers caught the man and arrested him. He was lodged at the WC Jail.

-Officers arrested a woman at a local establishment after 12 grams of methamphetamine were found in her possession. She was lodged at WC Jail.

-Police responded to an address after neighbors reported a man wobbling in his year and waving his arms in an odd manner. Officer determined the man was intoxicated and on medications. Two young children were found in the residence alone. The man was transported to the hospital. A family member responded to the residence to take care of children.

May 31

-A caller reported that a man was at his house who was claiming that he got away with committing a homicide and that caller did not feel safe. The caller then admitted to the officer that perhaps he had just been watching too much television lately as this hadn't actually occurred. The officer determined it might even be more complex than that when the caller also stated that his house had moved about a foot twice this date. Arrangements were made to transport the caller to the hospital.

-The garbage cans at Ace Hardware were gone through and garbage removed and scattered all over the lot. Police reviewed surveillance footage of the event and recognized the man then arrested him.

-A girl called police because her ex-boyfriend would not return the speakers she bought him while they were together that he since installed in his car. Police were not able to assist as the speakers now lawfully belonged to the ex-boyfriend.

-A man broke into his apartment by breaking a window after his roommate locked him out for non-payment of rent.

June 1

-Police responded to a physical fight between a 19 y/o male and 14 y/o female.

-A woman called to report a domestic assault that occurred in April. Police responded to the home then on a disturbance call however she was too scared then to admit what happened.

-A caller reported that a man on Gales Creek Road seemed "out of it" and needed to be checked out by police. An officer contacted the man who was extremely hostile and refused to engage in conversation.

June 2

-A caller reported his ex-girlfriend posting slanderous and private material on a "cheaters website".

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office in attempting to locate a wanted subject last seen at Walmart.

-Police responded on a report of a 10 y/o girl lying in the road. Officers found the girl who denied being in the road but her brother gave her up and admitted she had been. Parents were notified.

June 3

-Police responded to an overdose with rescue where a patient accidentally took too much cough syrup and prescription medication trying to treat a migraine.

-Police assisted after an 81 y/o woman began "screaming violently" and "banging on things." The woman was calm on police arrival and transported to the hospital.

-The man with the ex-girlfriend posting disturbing material about him on the "cheaters website" called again and was upset about what was being posted. Officers advised the man that no law was being violated and to seek a civil remedy.

June 4

-Police were called to assist with an out of control 6 y/o lashing out at parent and staff members at a local school.

-A woman called police after a man she allowed to stay the night from Portland left in the morning with her tablet computer.

-A resident flagged down an officer to ask if it was okay to euthanize his sick bird.

June 5

-Police checked on a report of two dogs left in a vehicle at a local store parking lot. Officers later checked on another dog reportedly without food, water or shade and determined the dog was in a cool enough location with food and water. Police later checked a report of a dog on top the roof of a local farm & feed store.

-An intoxicated man reported that he was jumped and assaulted by four males and got his wallet stolen. Officers talked with the man who was in possession of his wallet and had injuries that were very old. The man's story kept changing and police determined no crime occurred. He was transported to the hospital by request.

-A woman reported her daughter pushed her off her bike causing an arm injury. It was determined the incident occurred in Cornelius.

-Officers assisted with a pursuit that originated in North Plains following a hit & run and came into Forest Grove. Officers attempted to lay spike strips but were unsuccessful. The suspect continued fleeing west out of Forest Grove and later taken into custody after running from his vehicle.

June 6

-The same man from the day before reporting robbery and assault was again reporting being jumped, this time by three men. Officers contacted the man who again was intoxicated and claimed now that the police had assaulted him. The man had no injuries but was transported to the hospital upon his request.

-Police looked for a dog reportedly locked in a hot car at a store parking lot. No dog in a vehicle was located.

-Police responded to a disturbance between a woman and her boyfriend. The woman was upset over inappropriate pictures he had taken of her on his phone.

-A woman drove to the fire department to report that her adult daughter overdosed on drugs and could no longer feel her legs. It was determined the daughter ate an entire marijuana brownie.

June 7

-Police responded to a report of a man that jumped on top of a car and now was walking down the middle of the street screaming and yelling. Upon arrival the man ran after being ordered to stop. Officers caught the man.

-A man contacted a Forest Grove officer after already getting a response from the Sheriff's office on a fraud complaint. The man was referred back to the Sheriff's office.

-Three juveniles were reported to be setting off dry ice bombs in street. Officers contacted a man who admitted showing his son how to make the bombs and didn't know it was illegal.

-While on a late night patrol of a neighborhood, an officer discovered a small fire burning against a back fence of a residence. The officer put the fire out with an extinguisher and notified the fire department.

June 8

-A woman called police after her boyfriend "tagged her" on Facebook.

-Police received another call of a dog on top of the feed store. It is was the same dog as in past calls simply enjoying the view.

-An officer contacted a man on the street after noticing bandages and electrodes attached to him. The man admitted leaving a Portland hospital against their wishes where he was being treated for cancer. The officer called for an ambulance to transport the man back to the hospital.

June 9

-A citizen called police after a woman threatened to take a vehicle back after she changed her mind about selling it. The buyer was current on payments and had documentation proving the sale and text messages showing the negotiated price. The seller later called police and claimed she loaned the vehicle out and didn't really intend to sell it despite the proof offered by the new owner. She now wanted the vehicle back and wanted the buyer arrested. The woman became very upset with police when it was explained no crime had been committed and that it was a civil issue.

-A resident claimed that a 7 y/o female wanders around the neighborhood unsupervised and damages his plants. An officer determined this was not likely occurring.

-A man called police after learning his wife locked him out by dead bolting the doors to the house.

June 10

-A woman called police to report her wallet missing. She then called to cancel because she found her wallet. She then called back stating she had found a different wallet and that her wallet was still missing. An officer contacted the woman who advised she found her wallet after all.

-Police assisted the fire department in locating the owner of vehicle that caught fire.

-A resident reported that a man come out of his residence and yells and then goes back inside his residence and yells some more. An officer spoke to another resident in the area that had not heard any yelling.

June 11

-A woman reported she was illegally being evicted and sexually harassed. Police found no evidence of any crime.

-A woman called police to report that she had broken bones but could not afford to go to the hospital by ambulance. On a side note, she was also upset with her living conditions and was really craving a sandwich from Jack in the Box. Police believe the woman may be suffering mental health issues and will be contacting mental health services.

-Police looked for a vehicle on Hwy 47 towards Gaston after it was reported that an occupant fired multiple shots from the vehicle.

June 12

-Officers assisted in the search for a lost 4 y/o child. She was located at a neighbor's home.

-5 juveniles were detained for curfew and released to their parents.

-A man called to report the theft of a tomato plant but wasn't actually concerned about the theft. He instead talked about recent drug activity going on in the area.

June 13

-A caller reported that the neighbor sprayed his wife with a hose then sprayed water into the car window.

-A caller reported a slow moving wheelchair in the middle of Pacific Avenue downtown. The responding officer was unable to find this.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance where a man broke a phone that his girlfriend was trying to use to call for help. The man was arrested.

-Police were called to check on a female in her 20's who had been at a local park for nearly six hours and appeared disoriented. Officers contacted the woman who was suffering from mental illness and had the mental capacity of a 3 y/o. Officer learned the woman had left a care facility in Beaverton and arrangements were made for her return.

June 14

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance between a male and female arguing since 4am.

-Police responded to disturbance and found two sisters in an altercation over a cell phone charger.

-A suicidal man attempted to consume pills in the presence of officers. An officer received minor injuries in an ensuing struggle. The man was taken into protective custody and transported to the hospital.

June 15

-A man called police after an intoxicated acquaintance showed up and started pounding his door wanting to fight. The acquaintance was accusing the man of having an affair with his girlfriend.

-A man called police after his brother drove by in a car and threatened him.

-Police responded to a disturbance at a residence that including egg throwing. A woman apparently became upset and drove to the location after learning her husband was having an affair there. Even more unfortunate for her, she had also been drinking and was arrested for DUII.

-A man reported that his intoxicated girlfriend was hitting him in the face. There were no injuries and the man did want to press charges after the girlfriend agreed to leave. This changed when the girlfriend returned and started hitting him again and caused injury. The girlfriend was arrested and lodged at the WC Jail.

June 16

-A concerned caller reported a drunk driver. Police contacted the driver who not drunk but had just obtained her learner's permit.

-A caller reported that her sister stole her wallet while she was sleeping and used her debit card. The caller knew this because her sister entered her own Safeway card to still get her own club points while still using the stolen debit card.

-An officer assisted a pet owner in lifting her elderly dog into a vehicle after the dog's rear legs gave out on a trail near Thatcher Park.

-Police checked a forested area in town after a call was received that a man was going to hang himself. They found a rope but no one else around.

June 17

-A man reported identity theft from his 2012 tax return that he just learned about.

-Officers were called to settle a dispute between a daughter and her mother concerning harassing texts and telephone calls.

-Police responded on a report of 4-5 loose horses in the 1100 block of Pacific Avenue.

June 18

-Police checked on a distraught woman who believed that the Department of Human Services and police were ruining her life.

-Police responded to a call of two men yelling and a female screaming. Officers found a group of individuals having a drunken conversation asked them to tone it down.

-Police responded to check a man who was walking around yelling at buildings. The man was contacted and told to give the buildings a break and quiet down.

June 19

-Police responded to two separate domestic disturbances between a woman and an ex-husband who were still sharing a residence. One of the calls was more complicated with the woman's boyfriend present.

-Two dementia patients got into a physical altercation at a local assisted living center requiring a police response.

-A man drinking at a local bar with his mother was punched in the face and lost a tooth after "play slapping" other unhappy bar patrons. The man's tooth was later found in the street.

-A caller reported a man at the rear of a local store yelling and throwing cans. Officers found the man banned him from returning after receiving authorization from the store manager.

June 20

-A caller reported an individual driving erratically. Police located the driver and contacted the driver suspecting she might be intoxicated. She turned out to be suffering from significant mental health issues. Officers sought assistance from the Washington County Mental Health Response Team.

-Police responded to a report of an aggressive door to door salesman that refused to leave a residence after being told to do so.

-A man was arrested for DUII and hit & run after striking a parked vehicle and leaving the scene.

June 21

-A man was cited for Careless Driving after crashing into to parked cars in a residential area.

-A resident of an assisted living center called to complain that a person restrained from being within 50 feet of her was just within 50 feet of her. Police contacted the individual who was dropped off at the front entrance of the facility because he couldn't walk very well which likely put him within 50 feet. Once he saw the caller, he immediately went the other way.

-A man called describing that he was going through a streak of depression and needed to go to the hospital. Police arranged for transport to the hospital.

June 22

-Police responded a care facility after a dispatcher reported heavy breathing but no verbal communication on a 911 call. Police determined a psychiatric patient at the center go hold of the phone.

-A caller reported that an ex-boyfriend was harassing and had let air out of the caller's tires.

-Police found a man sleeping in his vehicle at a church parking lot. He was going through some problems at home and couldn't sleep at this residence.

June 23

-Police handled several calls complaining about a purple van at a local park with occupants possibly selling drugs. Police are familiar with the van and have contacted the occupants who are transient multiple times and have not found evidence of drug use, sales or any other criminal activity to date.

-A resident reported that a man wearing a red hat and batman pajamas had just rang her doorbell. She also said the man was carrying a stick and poking at a car. Officers arrived and found the man who immediately raised his stick and bladed his posture towards the officers. As additional cover units arrived, police attempted to arrest the man who violently resisted arrest resulting in a struggle. An officer received minor injuries in the scuffle. The man was lodged at the WC Jail for Disorderly Conduct and Menacing.

-Police responded to another call complaining that a police K9 was barking all night three nights in a row and is being left outside all day. Officers checked and found the dog inside the residence.

June 24

-Police responded after a man and his girlfriend got into an argument over roommates. Both agreed to sleep in separate rooms for the night.

-A woman reported her cat missing and suspected her parents may have taken it. She was advised to check with her parents.

-An anonymous caller reported a party and possible fight heard inside a residence. Police checked on the home and learned a boy was playing his PS4 with the windows open.

July 12

-An alarmed resident in the Forest Gale Heights area called police after finding a transient in the backyard asking to use the shower. The resident then found an open door and found items had been removed from inside and were in the backyard. Officers searched for the suspect and found him in a backyard on Watercrest Road. The man was arrested for Burglary and lodged at the WC Jail.

-A man called police upset about a Facebook posting from someone he was restrained from having contact with.

-Police assisted medical crews with a patient having a mental health crisis who wanted to go the hospital.

July 13

-A woman called police reporting that her son had stolen her vehicle and wanted him arrested. After some checking, officers learned the son was in New Jersey - and the car was still in the same place she left it.

-A caller reported hearing a girl screaming and a male subject pushing her up against the fence. When the caller yelled that she was calling the police, it was actually the girl that took off running. When the police arrived, they contacted the male who would only provide vague information.

-Officers assisted Sheriff's deputies with a rollover crash at David Hill Road and Gales Creek Road.

-A resident reported two baby opossums as trespassers in a closet that had accessed the residence through a hole in the floor. The suspects fled the scene prior to police arrival and were not located after a search of the area.

July 14

- Police responded to a report of a group of 20 male juveniles in a circle with two in the middle fighting. Officers determined it was a civil boxing match with gloves and "no face shots allowed."
- Police responded on a report of an elderly female in a bra and underwear hitting a building with sticks.
- Police are investigating a report of animal feces smeared on a vehicle.
- A woman reported that firework was set off in the entry way to her home.

July 15

- A resident called to complain about loose chickens in the neighborhood. It was explained that police and animal control do not deal with chickens.
- Another caller reporting a dog on the feed store possibly attempting to jump. Officers checked and found the dog in great spirits with no intention of jumping. The feed store dog went back to enjoying the view and the sunny day.
- Police responded to a domestic disturbance between a father and his adult son. The son broke the television in the dispute but the father decline to press charges.

July 16

- A local hotel called after a couple failed to check out on time and appeared to be passed out in the room with two small children running around. Fire & Rescue personnel checked the couple and found no medical issue. Police then arrested one of the adult occupants after finding a warrant for his arrest.
- A man called a crisis line stating he was thinking about suicide. When police were called by the crisis team and arrived, the man said he was no longer thinking about suicide. The man was transported to the hospital for further assessment.
- A woman was arrested for shoplifting at Bi-Mart.

July 17

- Officers located a suspect in a rape case out of St. Helens. Officers detained the subject and waited for St. Helens Police to arrive and take the man into custody.

-Police looked for a man who called 911 and started cursing at the dispatcher and calling names. Police found the man who was upset because he had been kicked out of his house. The man was warned about calling 911 and his conduct.

-Police responded to a report of a combative resident at an assisted living center. The resident was throwing furniture, lit paper and fire and was acting psychotic. The resident also punched a firefighter and had to be sedated. Officers placed a peace officer hold on the resident and they were transported to the hospital.

-Officers checked a residence following a report of a “strange thumping sound.” Nothing unusual was found.

July 18

-A man reported that his girlfriend held a knife to his chest. Police are investigating.

-A man who was transported to the hospital called to report that either the police or paramedics “lost his wheelchair” and threatened to call “every minute, every hour, every day, every year” until it was located. His wheelchair was found where it had been left – at his home.

-Police responded to multiple fights and disturbances. In one incident, two intoxicated friends spent the day together but then started arguing about something in their past. Another was a dispute between a woman and her ex-husband after the woman obtained a phone on his account without permission. Two others got into an argument and started throwing things inside their apartment resulting to two separate responses by police.

July 19

-A property owner called police after an unwanted food cart showed up. The food cart owner left on request.

-A citizen flagged down an officer on Main Street and reported that a woman was seen possibly selling drugs to a kid. The woman was observed entering a resident and fleeing out the back door. Police located the woman hiding in a porta potty in the City parking lot. Police determined the woman had a warrant for her arrest and lodged her at the WC Jail.

-A neighbor threatened to break the callers head and his car with a bat.

July 20

-Police were called to a local fast food establishment after a report that a female lifting up her dress and disturbing customers. Police removed the woman from the premises.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance after a caller's son punched the wall and door scaring his Grandmother. The fight was over not getting a job and mom refusing to hand over cigarette money.

-A neighbor reported two people sprinting across the road and into a nearby open garage. An officer contacted the two who were racing to see who was faster.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance at a local assisted living center. A woman reported her soon to be ex-husband assaulted her with an iPad and punched her in the head. She then admitted that she sometimes experiences vivid imaginations and that maybe nothing happened. The woman was escorted to her new boyfriend's house for the night.

July 21

-Police stopped to talk to a man and learned that he had a seizure and had fallen into a creek. The officer called for an ambulance and the man was transported to the hospital.

-A man called 911 because he was upset with the person he talked to on the crisis line. An officer spoke with him for an extended amount of time to make sure he would be okay.

-A caller reported her computer was stolen by a friend and sold to a pawn shop.

July 22

-A resident of an apartment complex complained of marijuana smoke from a neighbor's entering her apartment.

-A man reported having problems with his soon to be ex-wife and he boyfriend.

-Police investigated after a love rock was thrown through a window.

July 23

-A woman notified police that she drove into town the night before and was being followed by gang members. She added that she received this information via the FM radio.

-A citizen reported adults smoking marijuana in the presence of children. Officers contacted the babysitter who admitted to smoking outside. The children's mother was notified.

-A resident at an apartment complex called police after a load of barkdust was dumped behind their car. The barkdust was relocated.

July 24

-Police contacted and assisted a woman at a local store who was off her medication and was not sure where she was.

-A caller found out that the person they were allowing to stay on their couch for a few nights was using heroin.

-Police responded to disturbance involving a woman armed with a box knife tearing things apart at the location. The woman was transported to the hospital for a mental health evaluation.

-Police responded to a fight in the street with one armed with a knife and the other with a shovel. One of the subjects ran upon police arrival. The investigation is continuing.

July 25

-Police responded to a report of a man armed with a knife and a gas can threatening to burn the house down and himself during a domestic dispute. Officers talked the man down and arranged for transport to the hospital. The man also faces charges of Menacing and Disorderly Conduct.

-A woman reported she was being harassed by people that were following her around all day.

-Police are investigating a domestic disturbance where the suspect threw a chair at his girlfriend.

July 26

-A caller reported that an ex-boyfriend was calling by phone and impersonating Forest Grove Officer Maslen. While police determined the circumstances did not violate the law, the ex-boyfriend was warned that doing this was not a good idea.

-An employee of a local business in a relationship with the boss called police after boss's wife found out and reacted by allegedly trying to run the caller over.

-A man asked to borrow a "slim jim" from police after locking himself out of his car.

July 27

-Police checked on a report of a woman dancing on the sidewalk in a bikini. The woman was not breaking any laws.

- Officers responded on a report of a 2yo female lying in road. Police found the child okay and learned she escaped from a fenced back yard while playing.

-Multiple calls were received reporting a woman dressed in a bra, ripped shorts and handcuffs yelling at passing traffic. It was same woman from earlier in the bikini.

-A man at an assisted living center called reporting that he was naked in jail and that "the sheriff was dead and in his cell with him" and that someone had cut all the light bulbs. Police learned the man was having a dream when he called.

-A man called from a local store stating that he was going to fight police and that there was going to be a "riot" when they arrived. Sure enough, the man postured and started stretching his arms and neck as officers arrived. The man stated that he heard the police would fight on contact. It was explained that contrary to what he may have heard, the police do not fight people arbitrarily. After the likely outcomes were explained, the man decided he did not want to fight after all.

July 28

-A man reported that visitors at neighbor's house got angry at him for cat poop appearing in their yard and threw cat poop at him. The man insists the poop is not from his cats.

-A concerned sibling called for help after realizing their 5 y/o brother was missing. The child was found locked in the bathroom taking a nap.

-A resident called for police after someone was attempting to open the door of their house. They could hear the door knob moving and someone messing with the lock. The resident cancelled police after learning it was just a friend.

July 29

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance at a local assisted living center where a woman claimed her husband had assaulted her. The husband is confined to a wheelchair. Police were unable to determine any crime. The wife has not been residing with legal husband and is instead is living with her spiritual husband. During the call, the wife decided to go to the hospital believing she was having a stroke.

-Police arrested a man after he threatened his mother with a bat and broke two televisions and a mirror.

-A local employer called to have an employee checked on after he failed to show for work. Police eventually learned that the employee realized he was going to be late for work and simple decided not to go in to avoid the conflict.

July 30

-A woman called police to report a stolen motorcycle after her ex-boyfriend purchased it from her, stopped making payments, and then eluded police in another county and crashed it. The woman was advised this was a civil matter.

-Residents of an apartment complex complained of marijuana smoking neighbors leaving their window open. No crime was being committed and the caller was referred to the apartment manager.

-A man called 911 stating that his brain was telling him to rob the Plaid Pantry store. Officers arrived and found the man with a knife in his hand. The man was ordered to drop the knife and was taken into custody on a peace officer hold and transported to the hospital.

-Police checked on a white car sitting in the middle of an intersection with the engine running. Officers found a man sitting behind the wheel who vomited a few times and admitted to drinking and driving. He was arrested and later showed a blood alcohol result of .17%.

July 31

-A teenager received a visit from, and an investigation by police after posting a "kill list" on social media and talking about how much time he might get for manslaughter. The boy apologized stating he was inappropriately venting and agreed to delete all of his postings.

-A man RP wanting to file harassment charges against his cousins for falsely accusing him of stuff via email and text.

-Officers secured a fence after a loose pit-bull ran back into his yard near Willamina Avenue.

August 1

-A concerned sibling called to report that his brother was being held captive by his girlfriend. The caller stated that the girlfriend was not allowing his brother to leave and that he was trapped. Officers contacted the brother who admitted that he certainly "felt trapped" but not in the sense that his girlfriend was committing any crime. He stated he would leave on his own when the time was right do so. He declined any further offers of police assistance and said he would call if he needed us.

-Police checked on a dog that sounded in distress and might be without food or water. Officers found the dog with food and water and appeared healthy. He was only perhaps lonely for his owner to return home.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance on 19th Avenue. The male half was upset that his girlfriend went to visit the neighbors the night before in her pajamas.

August 2

-A resident of a local assisted living facility called police to report that he was being held against his will and had not been given any coffee. Police learned both assertions were not true.

-A new engagement was off to a rocky start after caller reported a domestic disturbance between her and her fiancé's mother.

-A woman reported she was assaulted by her boyfriend. Police interviewed the boyfriend that stated he had to defend himself for the second time in two days from his girlfriend who had resorted to hitting and biting.

August 3

-Police checked on a man after his wife became worried when she could not get a hold of him. Officers found the man outside who reported he was just fine. He was purposely avoiding answering his phone.

-Police responded to a report of "homeless people making noises in the bushes." They found nothing.

-A woman reported hearing gunshots and believed her neighbors were being held hostage. The neighbors checked out okay.

August 4

-A parks employee found a stray dog and called police. The dog was transported to Bonnie Hayes.

-Police responded to assist with a violent and combative dementia patient assaulting caregivers. The patient had no memory of what had just occurred when police arrived and was cooperative in agreeing to go to the hospital.

-An officer warned a couple who were allegedly having sex in a vehicle in a parking lot.

August 5

-Police were called after a man with a half-gallon of vodka was reportedly attempting to get into a vehicle. Police stopped the man and strongly advised him to rethink his actions.

-A caller reported that a "bum" was yelling in the area around Safeway. Police found the man singing and asked him to call it a night for the evening entertainment.

-Multiple vehicle egging's were reported overnight.

August 6

-Police responded to a residence where an elderly female had locked herself out of the house. The woman believed that the neighbors had locked her out of her home using remote control. With assistance from the fire department, access was made into the residence.

-A man was reported to be rummaging through dumpsters at an apartment complex. It turned out to be a tenant throwing away garbage.

-Four people were asked to leave a private neighborhood swim pool after they admitted to living outside of the area and sneaking inside.

August 7

-A caller in the Forest Gale Heights neighborhood reported that a mountain lion entered his yard. Appropriate agencies were notified.

-A local establishment complained that occasional checks of the premises made by officers were scaring customers away and that police visits were not wanted. The Oregon Liquor Control Commission will be made aware of the concerns by this establishment.

-An alert officer recognized a man in a front yard that had a felony warrant for his arrest. The man promptly ran inside the house. Officers asked man's brother to convince him to do the right thing and return outside to surrender, which he did.

August 8

-Police went to a residence after a call to 911. After the dispatcher asked if the caller needed police, fire or medical, the caller responded "Nothing you dumb ass" and hung up. Police contacted the parents of a 12 y/o boy who last had the phone. The parents will be handling the situation.

-Police were called to domestic disturbance with two sisters fighting. Police charged one of the sisters with harassment.

-A woman called to report the sound of someone snoring outside of her bedroom window. The responding officer found a dove softly cooing in the area.

August 9

-A caller reported that a dog was left behind at an abandoned "doggie day-care". Officers checked the premise, found it secure and found no dogs.

-An officer assisted an elderly man in a walker after a concerned caller reported him lost. The man apparently walked too far from home and needed help getting back.

-A caller was concerned about transient sleeping on corner. Officers checked on "John" who was just fine.

August 10

-Police were called on a missing 6 y/o child reportedly gone for two hours. The child was located in the area playing.

-An officer recognized a subject with a warrant for his arrest at a local intersection. While arresting the man and processing his property, methamphetamine was found in a backpack. The man now faces additional charges.

-A caller reported that someone was placing garbage in their garbage can.

August 11

-While on the phone with a family member in Albuquerque New Mexico, the caller heard them say "ouch, you're hurting me" before the line disconnected. Dispatch contacted Albuquerque officers who responded to check the family member.

-A woman reported her vehicle stolen before learning her brother had loaned it to a friend.

-While patrolling a local park at night, an officer located two clothing challenged individuals engaged in extremely inappropriate activity for a public place. Both were charged with Public Indecency.

August 12

-An officer patrolling a local park found a 3 y/o and 6 y/o were left alone. The officer was escorted to the children's home where the matter was addressed with the parent.

-An upset girlfriend allegedly bit a then tried to run over her boyfriend. The girlfriend was arrested and lodged at the jail.

-A resident reported that a pushy caller from a gas and oil company was asking personal questions.

August 13

-Officers received another report of a dog on the roof of the feed store possibly wanting to jump. The dog checked out as happily enjoying the view as usual.

-A painter working in the area called police after a subject threatened a dog for barking and then began making derogatory remarks towards him. Police contacted the subject and told him to stop yelling at animals and people.

-A man was reportedly depressed and wanted to hurt himself. Police talked with the man who was not depressed and did not want to hurt himself; he just wanted to go to Tigard. An officer provided the man a bus pass.

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office in a car vs. cow crash outside of the City limits.

August 14

-A caller reported a neighbor with a camera facing outside from a second story window. The caller was informed that this was not against the law.

-A caller reported a drunken wheelchair operator on Main Street. Officers were unable to find the subject.

-A man reported that his ex-wife took his mother without his consent. The caller was informed that his consent was not required if his mother wanted to associate with his ex-wife.

August 15

-Police are investigating a rental scam where a suspect pretends to be the owner of property and attempts to rent out rooms.

-Police looked for a man during the nighttime hours reportedly hiding in a field along Pacific Avenue and jumping out in front of traffic. Officers were unable to locate the subject.

-While working on a report in the middle of the night, an officer heard a commotion outside of the police station. A man had ran into the side of the building after a long night of drinking and managed to make it to the fire station before falling to the ground to sleep. The officer contacted the man's family who picked him up and brought him home to sleep it off.

August 16

-Three separate found wallets were turned in from the weekend. Police were able to return two of them to owners.

-Police were called after a landlord changed the locks on a tenant's apartment without formally evicting her. The landlord became angry after learning the tenant had rights.

-Police responded to domestic disturbance between husband and wife. The argument was over the husband's anxiety issues, which was not helping with his anxiety.

August 17

-A man tried to take off from an officer on a bike. The man was caught and arrested on a felony warrant.

-A caller reported a cat in a park that sounded like it was in major distress or pain. Officers could not find anything.

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office outside of the City limits on a man with a gun in a field. Police found an intoxicated man with a gun looking for coyotes and stray cats to shoot.

August 18

-A woman called for advice after missing her jury summons.

-Police assisted the Sheriff's Office in Cornelius after a neighbor reported "a tweaker" trying to access her back yard.

-A caller reported that neighbor faced boom box at her residence and played it for 5 hours straight.

August 19

-An officer arrested a man for drunk driving after stopping his car going 61 in a 35. His blood alcohol was double the limit.

-A caller reported possible drug activity at Joseph Gale Park. Officers found two minors using marijuana. Both were charged.

-A caller requested information on ownership and return of an engagement ring.

August 20

-Police checked a man after a report that he was laying on side the road. The man was intoxicated and decided to stop for a nap before continuing on his way home. An officer gave the man a ride home for his safety.

-Police looked for a 72 y/o man with possible dementia issues who walked away from his residence. He was found the next day at Dairy Creek Park in Hillsboro.

-An officer stopped to assist after seeing a man lying face down on the ground. The man had fallen and was injured. Medical was called and the man was transported to the hospital.

August 21

-A resident called police after a neighbor repeatedly entered their yard to feed and water their dogs. The neighbor did not feel the caller was feeding the dogs enough. The neighbor was advised to stay out of the caller's yard.

-A local business called after an intoxicated man entered to ask for an employment application and then left location, stopping to urinate in the parking lot. Police did not find the man, who likely has yet find employment.

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office in the arrest of a man after he eluded them by vehicle. The man was also charged with driving while intoxicated.

August 22

-A man was caught with his pants down near Pacific and Cedar Street. The man explained to officers that he was having trouble keeping his pants up with a new belt. The man decided he would go back to using his old belt if he couldn't figure the new one out.

-A woman called to report people breaking in to her residence. She then reported that someone altered her bank information but refused to show the officer her bank statement to verify the alteration. The woman then complained that Forest Grove Police and Hillsboro Police "never do anything." The officer was troubled on how to best help the woman who then remarked she would go to the district attorney's office and file a report against Forest Grove Police for "hassling" her. The officer was at a loss on what else to do for her.

-A Forest Grove officer spotted a suspect wanted in a Cornelius assault near Pacific Avenue and Quince Street. The man was arrested.

-Police were called to quiet down a loud party with a live band and bounce house.

August 23

-A local auto parts store called to report that a female was at the location stating that several male subjects took her out of her house and were forcing her to buy auto parts. Police did not determine any crime was being committed and believe mental health issues are involved.

-A man reported that someone was following him around town and was ducking behind trees every time he turned around to look at him. Police looked but found no one. The man later contacted police and reported again that he was being followed and that a white van had just pulled over near him. Police again found no one in the area.

-Police arrested a woman at 19th & Birch for driving under the influence of drugs.

August 24

-A man was taken into custody and lodged at the WC Jail after punching his wife in the mouth.

-Police assisted the Sheriff's Office for a call outside of Forest Grove reported to be a burglary in progress after man found a subject in his daughter's room. It ended up being the daughter's boyfriend.

-Police received a report of several juveniles at a private park throwing balls at people.

August 25

-Police checked on a woman after a caller reported her screaming and running into the house. The woman was suffering a migraine and was preparing to go to the hospital.

-Police investigated a suicide.

-The NYPD contacted FGPD to complete a message delivery.

August 26

-Police were called to check on a 7 y/o child out of control kicking and biting people.

-A citizen reported a road rage incident that included unlawful passing, the throwing of a water bottle and brake checking. Police found the suspect and charged him with Reckless Driving.

-A woman reported that her brother fell down her stairs after she told him he needed to leave the house. She was concerned he might need medical attention. The man refused medical and walked away.

August 27

- Police responded to a home burglar alarm at a residence. It was the in-laws.
- Officers assisted with traffic control while fire crews battled a large house fire.
- A resident reported dog and cat feces left in his yard along with two bags of cat litter and more feces left in the bed of his truck. Police are investigating.

August 28

- A driver was issued a citation for not having a license and insurance after a crash in the Safeway parking lot.
- A resident noticed windows steamed up on their vehicle and found hay inside it. They then noticed a transient looking subject sitting across the street and called police. The subject was arrested on a probation violation and lodged at the WC Jail.
- A caller reported a man in a wheelchair in the middle of the road. Police found the man eating cream cheese and reminded him to stay out of the roadway.

August 29

- A man called to report that the suspect who stole his car had just arrived at his house. Police arrived and checked but the car was not stolen. Police then learned that the man allowed the subject to drive the car but tried to report it stolen after the friend stiffed him with a bar tab.
- Police checked on a report of child neglect and poor living conditions. The reported was determined to be unfounded.
- A resident observed a neighbor tending to his marijuana plants and called to ask questions about the changes in the law.

August 30

- Police gave a warning to a citizen in the Forest Gale Heights area doing target practice with a bow and arrow.
- Police warned a man who pressed the buttons on a scissor lift near Main & 21st while walking home from the bar. He was told to keep his fingers to himself.
- A man contacted police at the station about people he thought were following him.

August 31

- A man reported that an unknown suspect filed taxes in his name for the second year in a row.
- Police arrested a subject after a beer run at a local market.
- A caller reported an intoxicated man at an address on 17th Avenue. Police arrested him after learning he had warrants out for his arrest.

September 1

- Police were called to assist after an 11 y/o locked himself inside a car and started destroying it from the inside.
- A woman reported receiving a letter from the United Kingdom announcing she had won a large sum of money. She recognized it as a scam.
- A woman reported that an unknown suspect opened up a PGE account in her name. The suspect turned out to be her mother.

September 2

- Police were called the second day in a row to help deal with a juvenile fighting with her mother because she didn't want to go to school.
- Police checked on a man who was reportedly acting incoherent, asking for marijuana and stating he was going to die. The man appeared to be suffering some mental health issues and boarded an eastbound bus.
- Police looked for a couple who were heard by the caller in a field arguing over a beer.
- A woman called claiming that people were on her roof sent by her mother to break into her home. Police contacted mental health services for the woman.

September 3

- A woman reported that a subject grabbed her arm as she was walking into local restaurant and asked her if she wanted a "Sunday fun day". Police later found the man and arrested him for Harassment.

-A resident at an assisted living center threatened to slit his wrists after family cancelled a visit to see him. The man voluntarily went to the hospital.

-A man requested a welfare check on his daughter as he had not heard from her in months. Police found that the daughter was fine and did not wish to speak to her father.

September 4

-Police checked on a man reportedly running around, dancing, singing, yelling and flailing about in a local park. Police were familiar with the subject and advised him take it down a notch. He was later called in again a few blocks away still singing and "acting weird". The man eventually boarded an eastbound bus.

-A concerned neighbor phoned police after hearing a man screaming at someone at a nearby apartment. Police found the subject who was throwing a tantrum because his girlfriend has left his apartment. He was advised to keep it down.

-A woman reported the theft of a notary stamp by an ex-boyfriend. The ex-boyfriend was reportedly holding the notary stamp "hostage" until the woman returned pens and crayons that belonged to him. After police explained he could not "hold hostage" another person's property, the man reluctantly returned the notary stamp.

September 5

-A woman reported that someone broke out her kitchen window. She believed the suspect might be an ex-boyfriend as she kicked him out a couple months ago and they've been arguing about the cat.

-Police were called to domestic dispute between an ex-girl and boyfriend over who owned the dog.

-Police responded to multiple reports of an erratic driver through town and into the neighborhoods in the SW area. Police waited in the area and arrested the man after he drove towards them. He was charged with DUI and Reckless Driving.

September 6

-A local hotel called to report a deceased person in a room. Officers checked and found the person very much alive but in a deep alcohol induced sleep.

-An employee at a local business called police to report a co-worker that might drive drunk.

-Police were called to check a party where minors were present. Three individuals were charged with furnishing alcohol to minors.

September 7

-Police responded to a burglary in progress after a man was seen entering an apartment. It ended up being the renter – the caller reporting the burglary didn't recognize him.

-A woman called police after a raccoon would not allow her cat to come inside and feared for its safety. An officer agreed to assist and allowed for the cat's safe return inside.

-A woman reported that an acquaintance stole her cell phone. While on the phone handling the call, she became upset and hung up on the officer.

September 8

-A caller reported that an unknown suspect "shot a nut" at them using a wrist rocket. Police determined that the wind blew an acorn down from a tree and into a window.

-Police were called to check on a woman after a concerned caller reported she had not answered her phone in days. Officers talked to the woman who said she was fine. She just didn't want to answer her phone.

-A caller report that they sent money for dog out of state but never received the dog.

September 9

-A caller reported smoke coming from a neighbor's apartment, advised there was a person there trying to hack the computers at the police department and that there were hostages inside. Police contacted the caller who was having mental health issues.

-A man called to report another subject taking pictures of him with a smart phone in a parking lot. It was explained that this was not against the law and that the subject might possibly be simply looking at the phone.

-A resident reported that bottles were taken from a recycling bin and broken all over the driveway. A family member was suspected.

September 10

-A woman reported her car was stolen and suspected her son. She was reluctant to complete the report however because she did not want him to get in trouble.

-A resident near the high school reported a vehicle break-in with high school aged suspect running from the scene. Officers located the subjects and arrested them after finding multiple victims.

-Police looked for a woman who reportedly took off her shirt and began babbling incoherently. They were unable to find her.

September 11

-A man reported that his girlfriend knocked out a window air conditioning unit and crawled through his bedroom window and started attacking him. The girlfriend was arrested for assault.

-Another caller reported the usual "dog on the roof of the pet store". It was explained this was normal.

-Police responded to a report of a loud party and found occupants age 21 or older drinking. The real problem came later when one of the subjects decided to drive leading to his arrest for DUII.

September 12

-A man allegedly parked in a handicap parking spot without a permit to display then threatened to kill the caller that pointed it out before leaving the area. The same man then returned and again parked in the same handicap spot. Police issued the man a citation and told him not to return to the area.

-A caller reported that they were sold a camping trailer but now the seller wanted to remove all the appliances. They were advised this was a civil matter.

-Police handled a reported domestic disturbance and found two males arguing over a bicycle.

September 13

-An FGPD officer responded as the first unit on scene of a cardiac arrest outside the City limits. The officer shocked the patient using an automatic external defibrillator before arrival of paramedics and performed CPR. At last check the patient had survived and in recovery. FGPD assisted with CPR in another medical emergency on this same date in town.

-A man found a Chihuahua on Hwy 47. Police were unable to find the dog's owner and transported it to Bonny Hayes.

-Police placed two people in protective custody and assisted in transport to the hospital in separate incidents following a suicide attempt and suicidal statements.

September 14

-A resident reported that an unknown suspect dug up garlic from the backyard garden.

- A citizen reported a toxic smell in the air around his home. Officers did not locate a source.
- While handling a call for service, a feathered citizen jumped on the back of an officer. Rather than respond with force, the officer made a friend. (We've attached a photo).

September 15

- A woman reported that her ex-boyfriend would not stop texting her.
- The agency was notified by a sheriff's office in Michigan that a firearm stolen from the Bi-Mart in Forest Grove back in 1987 was located. The firearm is being shipped back to Forest Grove.
- A local establishment called police after a man possibly on drugs walked inside and started making people uncomfortable. Police contacted the man who identified himself as "Forrest Gump." Police identified the man and told him he was never to return to the establishment. He was also banned from several other downtown businesses.

September 16

- A citizen called to inquire as to whether there had ever been a homicide at their residence and what the required clean-up steps were.
- Police responded to a domestic dispute over property.
- Officers responded an alarm at an area business with a subject observed on video. The subject turned out to be a customer still in the store after hours.

September 17

- A citizen reported to police that his diecast cars were moved and that the tint on his television had been altered by an unknown subject.
- A citizen called police to see if it was legal to drive with an arm sling.
- A man reported that he was assaulted by his son.

September 18

- Police assisted the fire department on a water problem and broken pipe after it was determined that the water pipe was damaged by a bullet from an accidental firearm discharge.

-Police were called after a teenager became extremely upset and began throwing things after a cell phone was taken away.

-A man reported that a woman broke his things and threw bricks at him.

September 19

-A child was taken into protective custody after threatening to kill his mother with a screwdriver.

-A citizen reported that someone placed a paper towel over their car battery in an attempt to start a fire while they were in jail. Police determined no crime.

-A local fast food establishment called after a woman became extremely irate after being told she had to wear shoes inside the establishment.

September 20

-While on patrol, an officer located a bag of bowling balls behind Safeway. Follow up will be conducted with the bowling alley to locate the ball's owners.

-An officer located a vehicle parked in the wetlands parking lot in the middle of the night. A man inside was reportedly using a free Wi-Fi signal to watch pornography from a portable device. A records check revealed the man's driver's license was suspended at the felony level but he denied driving. Further investigation revealed the man allegedly lied. He was later arrested and lodged at the WC Jail.

-A citizen reported a suspicious box with something shiny in it. Police located canned food and macaroni.

September 21

-A woman called in a panic reporting that her mother went for a ride around Hagg Lake and now could not reach her. She went on to talk about a murder suspect that did not get the death penalty and was now stalking her. She finally reported that her electronics were "freaking the (expletive) out". Police learned she had a doctor's appointment the following day to have her medications checked.

-A resident reportedly heard what sounded like a drunken male yelling at a child for spilling his beer. Police were unable to find the man or child.

-Police were contacted by a woman who was claiming to be the wife of a Forest Grove officer (but was not.) The woman was confused rambled about various topics and acknowledged she was having an anxiety attack. When asked why she was telling people that she was a police officer's wife, she stated that a Mexican Cartel was after her for reporting drug activity and so she was using a police officer's wife's alias so they would not bother her.

September 22

- A man involved in a road rage incident admitted to being the instigator and threw his Monster drink can at another driver.
- A man violently resisted during his arrest for trespassing which resulted in minor injuries to officers. The man was lodged at Washington County Jail.
- A resident received an email asking that money be sent to the state of Virginia. The resident recognized the email as a scam.

September 23

- A woman called to complain that she was being controlled by others through her electronic devices.
- Police responded to a domestic dispute over the male half's use of alcohol.
- A caller reported glass and vehicle fluid at an intersection and observed a vehicle with hazard lights flashing drive away. An officer was able to track the vehicle, contacted the driver and issued several citations.

September 24

- Police responded to an incomplete call for help at an address. Officers found a woman complaining of a bad reaction after trying marijuana. She was referred to medical.
- A concerned father called police after finding an Instagram account that suggested his son might be a sex offender. It was determined the account was likely created by a classmate as a joke. Instagram and the school were both notified.
- A caller reported that their roommate was violent, drunk and breaking things in the house. The roommate was arrested and lodged at the Washington County Jail.

September 25

- A caller reported someone at Safeway unlawfully selling kittens. It is not illegal to sell kittens.
- Police investigated a crash after a man fell asleep at the wheel and hit a parked car.

-A caller reported a 13 y/o female wearing gray leggings dancing around and acting strange. She was reportedly last seen walking towards the dance studio.

September 26

-Police responded to a loud music complaint that turned out to be a church band.

-A woman was arrested for DUI after a traffic stop for failing to obey a stop sign. Her blood alcohol level was double the legal limit at .16%.

-An intoxicated man was transported home by his mother following a drunken disturbance. Plans changed when the man tried to jump out of his mother's car while it was moving. Police detained the man and transported him to a detoxification center.

September 27

-An elderly man called to report that a female was inside his home leaning against a wall. Upon arrival, officers found just the man who appeared to be hallucinating and in poor health. Officers found the residence uninhabitable with both a water leak and what appeared to be a sewer leak. The man was taken to the hospital and other appropriate authorities notified.

-A citizen reported what appeared to be internal organs coming out of one of the FFA sheep at the high school. School officials checked on the animals and they were fine.

-Police checked on a woman who reportedly had not slept or eaten in two weeks. She was transported to the hospital.

September 28

-A man received a phone call from a subject stating there was a warrant for the man's arrest and to immediately wire money to avoid arrest. Fortunately the man realized it was a scam and sent no money.

-Police responded to a domestic dispute that was over brownies.

-A man called 911 after his extremely intoxicated roommate locked him out of his residence.

September 29

-Police responded on a report of a female screaming at a residence. Officers arrived to find a birthday party with several intoxicated guests. The birthday girl was also intoxicated and told officers to "(expletive) off" when they asked if everyone was okay.

-Police responded to a call of a woman experiencing a mental health crisis and was climbing a ladder to get the second story of a residence.

-Officers responded on a report of a man down on 19th Avenue. They found a transient who said he was just sleeping.

September 30

-A father called for advice on how to get his adult son out of the house.

-Police responded to a reported fight between 3 males in the street. Friends were trying to keep another subject from driving intoxicated. All left the area on public transportation.

-Two women reportedly dumped a mattress and box spring in a field. Officers spoke to the women who stated they were "hiding" the bed in order to come back later and haul it away.

October 1

-A woman reportedly spent thousands of dollars on iTunes gift cards and sent to a subject impersonating her grandson. The investigation is continuing.

-A man went to jail for Harassment and Interfering with Making a Report after stopping his girlfriend from calling 911 several times during a domestic dispute.

-A woman called police to report a man calling her cell phone, calling her names and telling her to kill herself. The man apparently wants a relationship with woman and the woman understandably is not interested.

October 2

-A man was lodged at the Washington County Jail after he furnished two minors alcohol.

-A man called police after the home burglar alarm system went off and he started hearing noises upstairs. Police checked the home and found nothing suspicious.

-A caller phoned police to ask questions about the legality of the caller's mother kicking her out of her home.

October 3

-Police responded to domestic disturbance between male and female. The female was the aggressor in the incident which was an argument over a bicycle.

-Officers responded to a physical altercation between father and son over spilled orange juice.

-While arriving in the area on a loud party complaint, an officer observed a man running on top of a car who ran after seeing the police car and being told to stop. The subject was a college student who then made a series of poor decisions including resisting arrest and giving false information about his name and age to police. The subject was lodged at the Washington County Jail.

October 4

-Police responded to 19th & Hawthorne Street after a crash between two Toyota Avalon's. One driver was cited for failing to obey a traffic control device.

-A caller reported that her ex-husband had a child with and now in a relationship with his first cousin.

-A neighbor reported a female at a residence banging on door and yelling for past 10 minutes. I turned out to be a wife trying to wake up her husband to open the door. He had already left to go on a motorcycle ride.

October 5

-A concerned parent called to report her daughter's boyfriend breaking into the residence and entering her daughter's room. Officers learned the daughter is an adult and is letting the boyfriend in.

-Police looked for a missing 74 y/o woman with dementia. The woman was found near the north end of Main Street. She told police she had escaped from her room where men were there making her drink water. Officers were able to convince her to go to the hospital.

-A man was arrested for driving under the influence of marijuana.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance where a husband and wife were arguing about the wife's mental health issues. In all, officers responded to 9 separate calls involving a mental health crisis in and around the city.

October 6

-A victim reported their wallet stolen while at church on Sunday.

-Police subdued a subject wearing a diaper, a blanket and carrying a drill.

-A woman called police insisting that family members were coming over and taking her property. She claimed her mother entered her home while she was in the shower and now two tables and a clock were missing. The woman is in the process of installing cameras in an attempt to prove her claims.

October 7

-A man called police to report that a married woman came over and had sex with him. The man wanted it documented in case the woman made any claim the activity was not consensual.

-Police were called to help free a cat stuck in the engine compartment of a car.

-A woman reported that her ex-boyfriend stole the car battery from her vehicle. Police learned the couple had been together for 18 years and that the ex-boyfriend had been driving the car with permission just the night before. The matter was referred as a civil issue.

October 8

-An off-duty officer noticed a wanted subject near a local convenience store and reported to on-duty officers. The man was arrested on two warrants and lodged at the WC Jail.

-A customer at a local lottery retailer allegedly hit a lottery machine screen and broke it. The customer agreed to pay for the damage.

-A man called police requesting assistance in contacting his son who he had not heard from in six months. Officer went to the son's address but no one would answer the door.

October 9

-A caller reported seeing a male who had a badge and what appeared to be a gun holstered near the hospital. Police determined the man was a security guard.

-A resident reported that a man was waiting around near a street corner in the same place for a couple days in a row. Police determined the man was waiting at a bus stop.

-A concerned citizen called to express concern for a dog on the roof of the feed store. They did not know this was a normal occurrence.

-Police received a report of a woman pulling plants out of a planter. Officers contacted the woman who admitted to doing so but then became extremely uncooperative, refused lawful commands and attempted to leave. The woman was arrested for Criminal Mischief, Interfering with a Police Officer and Resisting Arrest.

October 10

-Police responded to an assisted living center where a dementia patient was hitting staff. The subject was transported to the hospital.

-A caller reported that 20 minutes earlier, they watched a subject attempt to break into their car. The suspect was scared away when a car drove by and he got away. The caller reported that they waited before calling because they were not sure whether to call or not at the time. They were advised next time they should definitely call when it is happening.

-A man reported that a female at his residence was touching him sexually and kissing him against his wishes. An officer spoke to the female who denied this. Both were advised to stay away from each other to avoid any misunderstandings.

October 11

- A man called police after finding his daughter's boyfriend in her bedroom. The two were also reportedly smoking marijuana from a potato.

-A man reported that someone broke into his minivan stealing his speakers and his OxyContin prescription.

- A woman called police to report that a dog she rescued two weeks prior had become aggressive. Police advised the woman to contact the Bonnie Hayes shelter for assistance. The caller hung up on the officer unhappy with the advice.

October 12

-Officers were called to a loose goat in the roadway.

-Police were called to separate reports of loose dogs.

-A citizen reported seeing a subject that was wanted. Police found the man and learned he had already been arrested for his warrant last week and was back out of jail.

October 13

-Police received a call of a female sitting on the ground holding something to her head that looked like a Taser. Officers were unable to find her.

-Officers assisted the Sheriff's Office outside of the city limits on a possible burglary in progress after children heard a vehicle drive up and someone entered the home. It was just grandma coming over for a visit.

-A caller reported a female in a vehicle on the street lying in an awkward position. The female was contacted who was taking a nap in vehicle as while her home was being remodeled.

October 14

-A man called police for help after his wife reportedly became "out of it". She had poured hot sauce all over herself, urinated in her pants and was now sitting outside unresponsive. She was treated by medical personnel.

-A daughter punched her mother during a domestic disturbance.

-Police received a call of two loose aggressive dogs. Upon arrival, a pit bull charged an officer who was able to deploy a taser just moments before attack. The dog then retreated. Both dogs were eventually captured and transported to Bonnie Hayes.

October 15

-A woman called 911 after her neighbor knocked on her door asking her to call 911 because someone was in his attic. Police contacted the neighbor who advised that people in the attic were spying on him with fiber optic cables. Officers determined the residence did not have an attic.

-During a traffic stop, an officer located three juveniles out past curfew who had been smoking marijuana. The driver, a 16 y/o male, was arrested for DUII drugs and released to his parents.

-Police assisted the WC Crisis Team in contacting a woman who threatened to burn down her house.

October 16

-Police responded to domestic disturbance where a woman hit her husband with a cane.

-A caller reported highly intoxicated female sitting in her car. The vehicle left prior to police arrival and was stopped at 23rd & Cedar. The driver was arrested for DUI and later blew a .15% blood alcohol level.

-Police were called to check a man sleeping in his car at a local convenience store. It appeared the man had vomited inside and outside of his car due to intoxication. He was arrested for DUII, which resulted in a 0.14% blood alcohol level.

-While on night patrol, an officer saw what he thought was a male chasing a half-naked female down the sidewalk. Upon stopping them, the female was determined to actually be a male with long hair. One of the men, an adult, stated he was drinking "all the booze in the house" with his 20 year old friend. The man was arrested for Furnishing Alcohol to a Minor and his 20 y/o friend was charged with MIP.

October 17

-A man reported his vehicle stolen but cancelled police prior to arrival when he learned his brother had borrowed it.

-A caller followed a drunk driver into the parking lot of a restaurant and called police. Officers arrested the driver. His blood alcohol content was nearly three times the legal limit at .23%.

-A woman reported that her hair started falling out after a hostile roommate moved out. She believed the roommate might have put something in her shampoo.

October 18

-Police were called to a possible domestic disturbance. It turned out to be parents attempting to cross the street with their special needs child.

-Officers were called to a domestic disturbance or possible sexual assault in progress on some railroad tracks. Officers located a vehicle crash and two subjects arguing about it.

-A call was received a man beating a woman who was screaming. Officers found two subjects arguing but no other crime. Both were advised to separate and cool down for the evening.

October 19

-Police responded to a burglar alarm at a residence. A mother had left the residence and set the alarm but did not know her son's girlfriend was in the home.

-Officers checked on a reported suspicious person near the garages at a local apartment complex. After talking with the man, police learned that he had just returned from a 7 month stint on a commercial fishing boat and arrived home to find out his key did not work in the door and that his wife had left him. The man had nowhere to sleep and was just going to brave the cold and sleep behind the complex garage. The man's luck changed when a local warrant for his arrest allowed for a warmer stay and meal at the Washington County Jail.

-Two shoplifters were caught in separate incidents at Bi-Mart.

October 20

- A caller reported hearing a group of people in the parking lot a local motel arguing and a taser being fired. Yelling and cussing was also being heard from one of the rooms. Police found a large group of minors having a party. Two were issued citations for MIP and another was taken to jail on a warrant.
- Officers assisted Cornelius deputies after a man with a felony warrant ran from police.
- A woman called police after getting unwanted messages from a subject claiming to be a chaplain and wanting to deliver a message to her in person.

October 21

- Officers responded to a crash between a jeep and a taco truck at 18th & Hawthorne. A man working in the back of the taco truck at the time of the crash received minor injuries and was transported to the hospital.
- Police were called to a local gas station over a dispute about how much gas had been pumped into the tank.
- A caller reported being harassed by aggressive debt collectors.

October 22

- A woman reported that while she was in jail, her roommate accessed her bank account.
- A man reported that his ex-wife had broken into his home and was in the shower.
- A citizen called to report a large bonfire near the high school. It was an approved bonfire for the high school homecoming celebration.

October 23

- A citizen called to ask how they might be able to donate pumpkins to a shelter.
- Police responded to a vehicle that crashed into a pole on 24th Avenue. Airbags were deployed and blood was found inside. The driver appeared a few minutes after police arrival and explained he had fallen asleep at the wheel. It was determined he was not impaired. The man was cited for driving without a license and careless driving.

-Police were called to check on an intoxicated subject dancing and rolling around in the street. The dancing stopped when police determined the subject was 18 years old and issued a citation for MIP.

October 24

-A caller reported hearing a strange beeping noise coming from the field near his home. Officers arrived and found a smoke detector outside of a residence where it had been removed. The smoke detector was returned to the resident who removed it.

-Police found a man with a felony warrant near Pacific Avenue and Hwy 47. He was lodged at the WC Jail.

-Officers assisted Cornelius deputies with suicidal female cutting herself with a razor. The female was transported to the hospital.

October 25

-Police checked the driver of a vehicle after it was reportedly swerving and crossing into oncoming lanes. The driver was sober but driving without a license.

-Officers responded to a call of a 16 y/o out of control.

-Police checked on a man reportedly sleeping in a car near the bridge on "B" Street. The man was resting before going to work in Gaston and was advised this might not be the best option.

October 26

-Officers worked with medical personnel for over a half our attempting to revive an elderly man that had collapsed from a possible heart attack. The man unfortunately did not survive despite efforts.

-Police responded to a report of a woman walking in circles talking to herself. Officers found the woman who accused a female officer of being a prostitute wearing a fake police uniform. She also accused the officer of placing a bomb in a tomato sandwich and blowing up her husband. Although clearly experience a mental health episode, the woman did not commit any crime or present a danger to herself or others allowing a police hold for evaluation.

-The manager at a local business called police about a female customer coming into the store and getting aggressive in asking for money.

October 27

-A resident asked for extra police patrols after an unknown male called and stated that the house was under surveillance.

-Extra Patrol after a male called and said "the house was under surveillance" RP not really concerned and no suspects.

-A caller reported that a vehicle was parked near her residence occupied by several young males. The caller reported that the windows were fogged up and they were playing loud music, specifically the Marvin Gaye song "Let's get it on." Officers were unable to find the car.

October 28

-Police responded to a motor vehicle crash between a tow truck and car.

-Police responded to a report of a man possibly wearing a mask carrying a rifle walking on the school grounds at Tom McCall Middle School. Officers found a man simply carrying an umbrella and walking across the grounds to reach a bus stop.

-Police seized marijuana edibles from the university after they were found in a student's possession.

November 1

-A called with questions regarding his girlfriend locking him out of his house.

-Police checked on the welfare of a university student when his mother became concerned after he stopped checking in with her. He was fine.

-A Tri-Met bus driver called police after he caught a man trying to start up a bus while it was parked for a break at the "B" Street Transit station. The man allegedly stated that he was looking for a radio station.

November 2

-A man came into the lobby to report that his ex-girlfriend was accessing his Facebook page and posting things about him.

-A caller reported concerned for their 24 y/o sister who had not been seen or heard from in several hours and cell phone was turned off. It was learned she was safe in jail.

-A man was arrested for domestic harassment and lodged at the Washington County Jail, but not before threatening the officer that he would "find him" when he got out of jail.

November 3

-A babysitter called police after a woman came to the door and stole the family dog, claiming to be the owner. After speaking with the involved parties, it was learned the dog has changed hands numerous times and it was unclear who actually owned the dog. No charges were filed.

-An upset tenant called police after their landlord sent a text saying he was in their apartment. The landlord was warned about the need to give a 24 hour notice unless it was a true emergency.

-A caller reported nearly being hit by a dark colored Honda being driving by a female. The caller was highly intoxicated and gave other details that made very little sense. Police found no vehicle in the area matching the description.

November 4

-A caller reported a man in a parking lot talking to himself for over an hour. Police contacted the man who appeared to be possibly under the influence of drugs and having a mental health episode. The man did not otherwise present a danger to himself or others and left the area voluntarily.

-A citizen flagged down an officer to ask a question about what to do if they by chance were to find drugs in property they were storing for a friend. The officer advised the citizen they should turn the drugs over to the police – if this were ever to happen.

-A caller reported someone knocked on the front door and left a note demanding $50 from a subject the caller has never heard of.

November 5

-A caller reported that they heard a child crying and yelling for help and yelling “ow” from a residence in the early morning hours the day prior. Officers checked but found no one home.

-A man reported ongoing issues with the apartment management for the last three years. He explained the managers had been moving all around him and were making accusations to break up his family. The man then admitted that his own wife did not believe him and that he had not yet taken his dose of medical marijuana.

-Tri-Met contacted police after they were unable to wake up an intoxicated man on the bus.

November 6

-A caller reported the theft of three Bernie Sanders presidential campaign signs from the yard. There is no suspect information.

-A man reported that another man had just pulled a gun on him. Officers set up containment and called for a police K9. While waiting for the K9, the man said that people walking by were involved and then became uncooperative and suddenly left the area. Police are forwarding documentation to mental health services.

-A caller reported a man falling down in the middle of the roadway near 19th and "B" Street. Officers found an intoxicated man who claimed his friends had abandoned him somewhere off of Hwy 6. The man was given a ride to a local motel.

November 7

-A caller reported that a female wanted by police was hiding in a shed. Police arrived and found a woman in a shed who was in fact wanted by police. She was lodged at the Washington County Jail.

-A caller reported her brother allegedly threw a phone at her and hit her. It was determined the brother was upset at his sister for hiding food from him. Police determined that no crime was committed.

-Police responded to quiet down an 80's themed 30th birthday party.

November 8

-A man called to report that he had found three people in the crawlspace under his home. The man reported that they made access building a tunnel through the home's foundation. The man believed the suspects might be the neighbors. Police checked the crawlspace and found no one there and no tunnel.

-A man called wanting to talk to a sheriff's deputy because he was unhappy officers in Forest Grove did not charge a man for trespassing during a warrant arrest. The man was not charged with trespassing because he was at his mother's home with her permission.

-A woman reported that she had observed on her surveillance camera someone enter her basement. Police arrived and checked the basement but found no one. The woman also reported that the same subject had grabbed her cat and killed her bird several days prior. The woman was unable to produce and video footage to prove her claims.

November 9

-A man at a local care center called police to report that the staff was pouring some type of liquid on him and taking his belongs while he slept.

-A caller reported a panhandler near McDonalds yelling and talking to himself. The man refused to leave when asked to do so. He did however agree to a free bus pass to get back to Portland.

-An off-duty Hillsboro officer called after following a vehicle into Forest Grove that was weaving all over the road. Officers stopped the vehicle and arrested the driver for DUII. The driver's blood alcohol content was .19%.

November 10

-A caller reported that his mother's husband threw a shoe at him during a disagreement. Unfortunately it was the caller who went to jail when police learned he was a sex offender that failed to register within 10 days of his birthday.

-A woman called 911 then hung up. Upon call back, the woman advised people were selling marijuana and beating her up. Upon arrival, police found an uninjured intoxicated woman who was possibly having a mental health crisis.

-Police responded to a burglar alarm at a residence and found only dogs running around inside.

November 11

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance and spoke a woman who was upset that her male roommate got soap in her coffee while washing the dishes. The male roommate complained the female spit at him. Police determined no crime was committed.

-A man and woman were banned from ever returning to Goodwill after shoplifting.

-A woman received a phone call from a subject identifying as a police officer and that she would be arrested if she did not call back. No such call was made by the police.

November 12

-Police responded to a call of a man threatening to eat rat poison. Officers placed the man into protective custody and transported him to the hospital.

-A local establishment called for police assistance after a customer became unruly and started throwing ranch dressing at a window.

-An intoxicated woman called 911 to report a domestic disturbance but then refused to cooperate with the police when they arrived.

November 13

-Police checked the welfare of an elderly male found on ground by passerby on Pacific Avenue. Upon arrival officers found the man who used a walker and left an area assisted living center. He had apparently consumed a few too many beers. The fire department gave the man a ride back to his residence at the assisted living center.

-A man reported that his ex-girlfriend had logged into his Facebook account and was posting negative things about him including that he had a sexually transmitted disease.

-Police assisted an area physician in contacting a patient after review of a lab report revealed a potentially life threatening condition requiring immediate transport and admission to the hospital. The patient did not answer the phone or door. Officers made entry and located the woman asleep. She was transported to the hospital by ambulance.

November 14

-A caller reported that her roommate's dad just threw hot coffee on her. The caller believed he might have been upset with her for keeping housemates up because she was arguing with her boyfriend late into the previous evening. The roommate's dad said this wasn't the case at all. He simply spilled his coffee by accident after tripping and this was confirmed by another witness.

-Police checked on a vehicle reportedly unable to maintain lane and driving at erratic speeds. It was a young driver with a permit learning how to drive.

-A grandmother called police after her granddaughter called from Portland stating she was on her way in a cab to beat her up. Fortunately, the granddaughter did not know where her grandma lived.

-A caller on Main Street called to complain about an intoxicated man trying to sleep on peoples porches. He was also reportedly yelling and barking at dogs. Police were unable to find a man matching this description.

November 15

-A caller reported her Facebook account had been hacked and that she had received an email stating she had acquired a virus. The hacker turned out to be a friend.

-A man called wanting police to standby while he dropped items off at his ex-wife's home because she previously threatened to call police if he showed up. Officer spoke to the ex-wife who requested that the caller simply throw away whatever he had of hers because she did not want him at her residence.

-Police responded to a disturbance at an apartment and found two male roommates fighting. The alleged instigator went to jail for assault.

November 16

-A man called police to find out what his options were after his wife through his property over the fence and locked him out of the house.

-A caller reporting that their mother had barricaded herself in her room and was is detoxing off of marijuana. Police contacted the mother who just wanted to be left alone and denied wanting to hurt herself or others.

-A local hotel called after a woman showed up in the lobby acting strange. The woman wanted to rent a room but did not want to use her credit card because she was afraid someone was tracking her. Officers were familiar with the woman who was having a mental health crisis. They gave her a courtesy ride to another hotel.

November 17

-A man came in to talk with police about his options after getting kicked out of a band and now being slandered on Facebook.

-Police tried using cellular triangulation data to look for a woman after her husband reported she had sent him a text message indicating she had slit her wrists.

-Police contacted a woman after a witness reported she was driving erratically on Pacific Avenue. The woman stated she was driving poorly because she was upset with her mother. The woman was warned about the dangers of her emotions affecting her driving.

November 18

-A man called to get advice after his estranged wife of three days switched his bank account information and online banking portals.

-A citizen called for advice following a Craigslist puppy sale gone wrong with a buyer that became antagonist and almost threatening.

-An officer stopped to talk with a man who was standing in the middle of the street and singing in the rain. The man explained he had just gotten off work and was enjoying an adult beverage and the liquid sunshine. The officer warned the man of the dangers of standing in the street and drinking alcohol in public. Then man agreed to his property which was about six feet away.

November 19

-A man reported a burglary to his residence and was missing a handgun and a model train set. He suspected his nephew. After investigation and interview, the nephew was arrested and lodged at the WC Jail. The handgun and model train set was recovered.

-A woman called to report that her boyfriend would not leave her alone, was threatening and following her.

-Police investigated a report of cyber bullying.

November 20

-Police were called to a dispute over cat adoption.

-A hysterical woman called 911 to reporting a sexual assault. After police arrived and the woman calmed down, it was determined that no assault had occurred. The woman explained that a male acquaintance kicked her out of a house after she declined to have sex with him and this really upset her. An officer gave the woman a courtesy transport to a local restaurant where she met up with her husband.

-Police responded to another domestic disturbance between roommates.

November 21

-During a traffic stop, a man reported to an officer that had been beaten up and robbed of his cell phone while delivering marijuana. The man did not want to press charges, just help finding his cell phone.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance between an 18 y/o male and his 41 y/o girlfriend. Both believed the other was cheating.

-A resident of a local assisted living facility called to complain that staff had pulled his catheter too hard. He also complained that he was missing an ID card and a bank card. Police were unable to determine a crime occurred.

November 22

-A man went to jail after punching his step-son over an argument about home-done tattoos.

-A man called to report a raccoon in his yard that had allegedly been killing his chickens.

-A man reported bus passes and a set of keys additionally missing from a report of theft he made previously at an area assisted living facility.

November 23

- Police checked on a report of a 4 y/o allegedly choked by an aggressive cousin with autism.
- An area care home called after a woman walked in wearing pajamas and not making any sense. Officers learned the woman had just been kicked out of her home and arranged to take her to a warm place to spend the night.
- An officer located a vehicle parked at Thatcher Park late at night with the windows fogged up. Inside were a man and woman, each married to another person, and doing more than "just talking." They were advised on the law and park rules and told to move along - after the windows cleared for safe driving.

November 24

- A local bank employee called on behalf of a customer that was told by a caller they would shoot her if she did not send them money. An officer explained that this was a scam and escorted the customer home.
- A caller reported that an ex-partner from 14 years ago was sending unwanted Facebook messages and calling names. The caller was advised to block the person on Facebook.
- A caller reported that her soon-to-be ex-fiancé took files off of her computer without her permission via remote control. She said the computer had been cloned and that he had been deleting files all day.

November 25

- A local cab company arrived for a pick-up and reported a male and female fighting inside the residence. Officers found a 93 y/o woman and her husband who were not fighting. It turned out the cab company was called by scammers in Jamaica wanting them to pick up the woman and take her to the bank to withdraw funds.
- A resident called about a man that was walking around a neighborhood and reportedly never seen before in the area. Police contacted the man who in fact was not from the area. The man explained that he was following three birds. Police believe the man was dealing with some mental health issues but was not a danger to himself or others.
- An officer transported a possibly old or injured dog lying in the middle of the road to a local veterinary clinic.

November 26 – Thanksgiving Day

- Police responded to a fight between two males with one armed with a piece of firewood.
- Officers responded to a dispute between two men over a child custody exchange.
- Police attempted to assist a woman having a mental health crisis who locked herself inside her bedroom and refused to speak to a crisis team member or officers. There was not enough information to show the woman was a danger to herself or others. Officials left after another family member ensured all weapons had been removed from the house.

November 27

- Officers responded to a disturbance between a male and a female. Officers contacted the couple who had an off and on relationship that was currently off. Apparently the woman became upset after seeing the male holding hands with another female.
- A woman called from a local bar stating that she and her friend had been locked inside the bar after closing. Police arrived and directed them to freedom through a fire door.
- Police completed an extensive area check after a 911 call from a cell phone was made in the area of 23rd and Elm Street. A dispatcher reportedly heard what sounded like a female saying "I need help." A call back to the number went to voicemail. Police were unable to find anything suspicious or anyone in need of help.

November 28

- A caller reported a man walking down the street with blood coming out of his ears. Officers found a man wearing red head phones but no blood.
- A local business called to report a suspicious man in the parking lot acting erratically. Police contacted the man who explained he was collecting cigarette butts and was going back to Portland.
- The hospital called after an apparently intoxicated man was beating on the back door trying to get inside. Police contacted the man who admitted to smashing pumpkins and admitted to throwing a piece of pumpkin at a car. Officers issued the man a citation for criminal mischief when he suddenly started complaining of chest pains and was transported by ambulance to Tuality Hillsboro by Metro West. An upset doctor from Hillsboro Tuality called after the man started causing a scene there and wanted Forest Grove officers to go arrest the man so Hillsboro officers would not have to "clean up our mess." The criminal process was explained to the doctor.

November 29

- Police were called to a dispute between an adult daughter and her mother over Christmas decorations.
- An officer pulled a vehicle over for an equipment violation. Upon contacting the driver, the officer realized she was extremely intoxicated and arrested her. Her blood alcohol content was .22%.
- A caller reported that a cat been abandoned at a local laundromat. Officers searched the area but found no cat.

November 30

- A caller reported a man walking with a little boy and that it did not look right. Police contacted the man who was taking his 4 y/o son on a walk to Grandma's house.
- Police assisted the fire department with a combative female patient in her 80's.
- A man consumed two bottles of rum in an attempt to end his life. The man was transported to the hospital by ambulance.

December 1

- An area assisted living center called police after a resident became uncooperative with staff and left. The 100 y/o resident was found lying on the railroad tracks and claimed the staff put him there. The man was transported to the hospital for evaluation.
- A man called police after becoming concerned that several transients he had allowed to stay in his hotel room with him might have been using drugs and may have stolen from him.
- A woman called police to report that she beat up her boyfriend the night before. Police spoke with the boyfriend who was not injured and denied that any assault took place. It was determined that the woman arrived home so intoxicated that she did not know or remember what happened.

December 2

- A resident on "A" Street reported the theft of their outdoor Christmas decorations.
- A manager at a local complex became upset after police refused to share details about response to calls involving one of his tenants. The manager claimed he had a right to know what was going on and threatened to sue the police.
- A woman called for concern for her son had not slept for three days and was yelling that aliens were going to cut her. Although suffering a mental health crisis, the son did not pose a threat to himself or others to the point that he could be taken into protective custody.

December 3

-A man called while on the bus because he believed he was being followed by someone waiting for him to get off. Police assured the man was safe and not being followed.

-An officer on patrol noticed a vehicle at night getting ready to leave a park. The officer contacted the occupants and found two 22 y/o males and two 16 y/o females that had all met on a social media application called "Meet me". The males denied knowing the girls were under-aged. The officer contacted the parents of both girls.

-A man called police after hitting a deer.

December 4

-An officer stopped after witnessing an auto vs. bicycle crash at Pacific Avenue and Elm Street. The bicyclist was issued a citation as he pulled in front of the car that had a green light. Unfortunately the driver of the car was cited as well after it was learned they did not have a drivers' license.

-A caller reported that his cousin stole his cat. The cousin explained he found the cat outside but simply didn't have transportation to bring the cat back.

-A woman called police reporting that her boyfriend texted that he was had been kidnapped and was being taken to the wood. Police found the boyfriend in Aloha safe and sound.

December 5

-A concerned friend out of town was concerned a friend may have been sexually assaulted. Police contacted the victim who denied being assaulted and insisted was not forced to do anything against her will. She simply remarked that the tryst was "more freaky" than she was used to.

-Police responded to a physical altercation between sisters after they began arguing and insulting each other over their marital statuses.

-A caller reported a possible sexual assault following a massage session. Upon further investigation, the caller simply became "freaked out" by the massage itself and was never inappropriately touched.

December 6

- A local church called after a possibly intoxicated man showed up and interrupted the service and started arguing with parishioners. The man agreed to leave upon police arrival.
- A resident on "A" Street called after their window suddenly broke. Officers found a juvenile at a nearby residence that admitted to "accidentally" shooting the window with a BB gun.
- An ODOT employee reported the theft of a chainsaw from the back of the state owned pickup while doing work in the area of Hwy 47 and Pacific Avenue.

December 7

- A woman called to complain that she was hypnotized twice while visiting the library.
- Police helped to rescue several folks that decided to drive through high water and past road closed signs. Three citations were issued.
- A man accused his brother of stealing things from his home. The accused claimed that his brother had a drinking problem and was mistaken.

December 8

- A man reported that his elderly father was in need of medication and had barricaded himself in the bathroom. It was determined the man had fallen and could not get out of the bathroom on his own.
- Officers responded to a report of a deceased person and completed a death investigation.
- Police took a suicidal female armed with a knife into protective custody for transport to the hospital.

December 9

- Police were notified about two separate scams where fake cashier's checks for over the amount were sent for goods or services with a request for payment to make up the difference. The victim ends up being out the cash they send back, but not in this case as the scam was realized.
- A female juvenile ran away from home and then promptly stole beer from a convenience store. Police have probable cause for her arrest.
- A man reported that someone was able to steal a notice of shipment from his iPad although it was not clear how this could have occurred. Police believe the man is suffering mental health issues.

December 10

- A man stopped by the police department to try to obtain a copy of a police report. He claimed he was sent by the Holy Ghost.
- An intoxicated and suicidal woman was transported to the hospital after she threatened to kill herself.
- A citizen reported several young adults steal mail from a mailbox. It turned out to be their own mail and mailbox.

December 11

- A man reported that his ex-wife was sending unwanted Facebook messages to his new girlfriend and her family.
- A man reported that he believed he was being followed by unmarked police cars. The man later admitted that he had been reading too many books and listening to too much conspiracy radio talk shows.
- A resident reported a laser light Christmas display stolen from the front yard.

December 12

- A man reportedly went drinking for his birthday and was now missing a large sum of money.
- Police found a man at the back vehicle gate asking for help. He told officers he had driven to the police department to get help because his girlfriend's father had assaulted him. Police determined there was more to it. It turned out that the girlfriend's father had taken the man's car keys because he drank too much and the man got upset. The man was arrested for DUII.
- Police responded to a possible domestic dispute. Upon arrival they learned that woman woke up to her male friend urinating on the bedroom wall. After she yelled for him to stop, he proceeded to the kitchen where he urinated in the sink and garbage can. The woman asked for help in removing the man. Police called for a cab to take the man back to his home in the Newberg area. The current friendship status is unknown.

December 13

- A man called with questions about a female he allowed to stay with her for past two weeks. He believes she needs help and a place to stay but also wants her to leave.

-A neighbor saw a pickup drive through a neighbor's front yard taking out roses, a fence, a flag pole and a sign. The truck's hubcap was found in the yard. The pickup was found at the police station where the driver was arrested the night before after he drove to the station while intoxicated to get assistance on a separate matter.

-A man called police after his own dog bit him.

December 14

-A man at an area assisted living center report someone remove his sleep boots and socks and cut his foot in the process. Police found no evidence of a crime.

-Police responded to a disturbance between a man and woman where the woman pepper sprayed the male. The man was uncooperative with police.

-A woman forced her way into a residence trying to get her ex-boyfriend to leave with her. The ex-boyfriend barricaded himself in a bedroom as the woman tried getting in while calling police. The woman left prior to police arrival. There is probable cause for her arrest.

December 15

-A caller reported that they followed a female in a vehicle to the area of Maple Street and 18th Avenue that had blown several stop signs and nearly hit several pedestrians. Police contacted the driver and arrested her for DUI after she showed indicators of intoxication. Her blood alcohol level was over double the legal limit at .17%.

-A man reported that his cousin stole $2.00 from him and was now attempting to fight others in his apartment complex. Police arrested the man for Theft and Disorderly Conduct.

-Police were contacted following multiple scam attempts including the IRS scam where a subject calls threatening police are on the way to arrest them for unpaid tax debt unless they send money.

December 16

-A resident of a local assisted living center called police to report sexual harassment by the facility maintenance man. Police contacted the maintenance man who explained that he simply peeked into the room checking the smoke alarms.

-A man called upset because two juveniles were "making out" in front of his driveway.

-Campus Public Safety called to report odd circumstances concerning a 69 year old male that was on campus trying to meet up with an 18 year old student not at home. The man was asked to leave the campus.

December 17

-Police responded to a report of an 89 y/o man threatening suicide stating that no one was going to be able to talk him out of it. Police placed the man into protective custody and he was transported to the hospital.

-A man became alarmed after learning his mother-in-law took out a life insurance policy on him. The man wanted to have it documented in the event something happens to him.

-A subject reported workplace harassment after a co-worker threatened to have her husband deported.

December 18

-A man reported that someone pointed a green laser in his eyes as he was driving near Pacific Avenue and Maple Street.

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance where a man and woman were arguing over infidelity issues.

-A woman called to report that she saw someone sleeping in the secured apartment complex laundry room. She also reported seeing them get dressed and then observed them cleaning a chainsaw. Police found the laundry room empty but also found that someone had forced entry and jammed an object into the door to prevent it from locking.

December 19

-A concerned mother came into the lobby to report that her 16 y/o daughter was talking on the phone to a 20 y/o male. The mother however did not want to talk to her daughter about the issue nor have the police talk to her either. The mother was given advice to consider talking with her daughter and perhaps blocking the number if it really bothered her.

-A concerned neighbor called to report what appeared to be a homeless man on the property next door. Police contacted the man who said he was there to do some work. The homeowner confirmed this stating she was getting an estimate for installation of a sump pump.

-An anonymous and uncooperative caller reported excessive activity in the area of an apartment complex with ongoing drug problems. The caller told the dispatcher "she was no help" and wanted to know who to talk to in order for the sheriff's office to take over Forest Grove. Police arrived and watched the area. Officers pulled over a car leaving the complex and learned they were new tenants just moving to complex explaining the increased activity.

December 20

-FGPD assisted Hillsboro Police in the search for a missing person after her cell phone pinged in the area of Hawthorne Street.

-A woman reported her tires were slashed while away at church.

-A caller reported a traffic light stuck on red. Officers arrived to find rescue and ambulance vehicles in the area on a call disrupting the light sequence.

December 21

-An intoxicated man entered the liquor store and was refused service after he attempted to purchase more alcohol. The man left and managed to high center his vehicle on a curb in the parking lot allowing time for police to arrive. Officers arrested the man who had double the legal limit of alcohol in his system.

-Officers assisted an 80 y/o woman clinging to a light pole. She was unable to walk in the high wind during the storm. An officer gave her a ride home.

-A man called police reporting a terrorist attack after someone allegedly poured human sweat on him. It was believed the man was suffering a mental health episode.

December 22

-A woman reported that she had a friend watch her dog while she was in the hospital who then refused to return the dog until she "got her life straightened out." The dog was eventually returned.

-A woman reported that her husband was not returning her children to her. It was explained that both parents had equal rights to the children.

-A resident reported a suspicious car with a man sitting inside. Police contacted the man who explained he had just lost his home.

December 23

-A woman called police requesting to speak to "the tall, handsome detective." Officials were able to determine who the woman needed to talk to.

-A caller reported a man with a flashlight trying to get into a car with the car alarm going off. Police arrived and determined the man was the vehicle's owner and had locked himself out of his car.

-A citizen reported the theft of their garbage can but could not be certain that the recent windstorm might not have blown it away.

December 24

-A resident called police to report someone sleeping in their shed. It turned out to be the caller's brother who was transient, did not have a place to stay for Christmas and was not welcome. He was asked to leave.

-A man's estranged wife for over two years finally returned home to the satisfaction of her husband but then became angry because he failed to take out the trash. After the wife became angry enough to start destroying things in the residence, the husband changed his mind and wanted her out. The wife agreed to leave.

-Police arranged for medical transport to the hospital for a man who sent an email stating he planned to end his life on Christmas day.

December 25

-A resident flagged down a patrol officer to report that an unknown suspect had left hay and horse manure in their driveway along with a sign stating "Reindeer Rest Stop."

-Police responded to a report of a woman in duress in a wheelchair screaming for help. Officers arrived and learned the woman's cats had escaped and one had already been hit by a car. Officers helped the woman look for her remaining cats.

-Officers responded to an address after a boy called 911 and cried that he needed an ambulance for his mother. It turned out that his mother had an anxiety attack and passed out after becoming upset with the caller arguing with his brother.

December 26

-Police responded to a report of a man screaming at an elderly female in a vehicle. Officers contacted the man who was yelling at his Grandma.

-FGPD officials were contacted by another police agency out with a man experiencing a mental health crisis. The man claimed that he was drugged and sexually assaulted. Detectives are investigating.

-Officers were notified of a man trying to get into a pick-up with evidence of what might have been extreme intoxication. Police contacted the man who was cleaning up spilled chowder in his vehicle.

December 28

-Police checked the area for man that called 911 and began laughing before hanging up.

-A mother called police to have her daughter kicked out of her apartment.

-Officers checked on a report of a woman going through people's yards and acting strange. They did not locate her but believe they know who she is.

December 29

-Police responded to a domestic disturbance between two females throwing hamburgers in their apartment.

-A man called police after a friend that borrowed his pick-up failed to return it.

-A caller reported stolen checks deposited in their daughter's checking account. The daughter's boyfriend is the suspect.

-Parking citations were issued to several construction workers after they refused to move their cars for garbage pick-up.

December 30

-Police responded to a suicide attempt after a woman slit her wrists.

-A woman called for help after getting her foot stuck between a tree and a fence.

-Two sisters got into a volatile fight with several children present. One of the sisters was arrested and lodged for harassment.

-A 16 y/o reported being harassed via Facebook and Snapchat.

-While on patrol, an officer noticed a vehicle wrapped in duct tape.

December 31

-A woman called claiming her boyfriend threw her into a coffee table. Upon further investigation, the caller's story did not add up. Both agreed to separate for the evening.

-While on patrol downtown, an officer noticed three people standing around a recycling bin that was on fire. Investigation determined one of them had just blown up the recycling bin with a mortar. The man was lodged in jail for Criminal Mischief I, Reckless Burning, and Disorderly Conduct.

-Later in the evening officers rolled up on a fight in progress in a parking lot downtown. Two fled the scene and one remained who was initially belligerent and uncooperative with police. After the man calmed down, officers were kind enough to give him a ride home.